#10

In response to developments in the region, IOM and UNHCR collected information on inflows into Pakistan from the Islamic Republic of Iran—drawing on multiple sources[1] and corroborating data where possible. This report presents cumulative data on the nationality of arrivals by border crossing point (BCP) and flow trends from 1 March to 11 June 2026.[2] IOM and UNHCR continue to monitor the situation closely and provide regular updates.

- Since late May, movements have slowed following the Eid holiday, high temperatures, and security incidents in Pakistan along the route of the Taftan BCP.

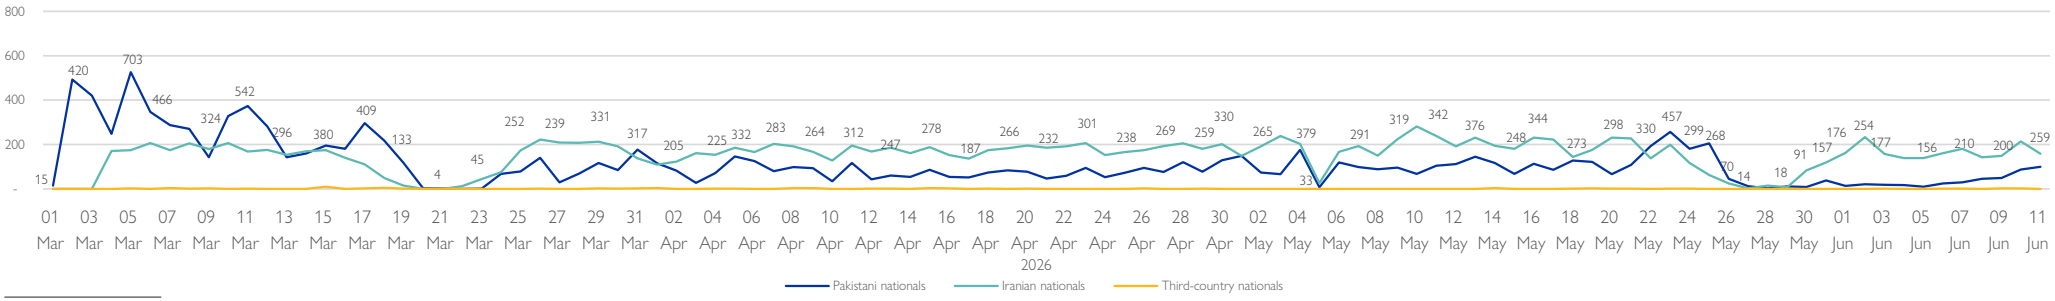
CUMULATIVE INFLOW TRENDS (by nationality)



[1] A diverse range of sources were consulted, including local public government sources.
[2] Since 14 March 2026, inflow types are no longer shared; only total flows are available.
[3] Based on local sources, all Iranian inflows since 1 March 2026 either possess a valid Pakistani visa and Iranian passport. Since 01 April 2026, the Rahdari pass, a temporary entry permit, is no longer considered valid documentation to enter Pakistan. Apart from documentation status, these movements may reflect routine activities, such as tourism, trade, transit, family visits, or may represent precautionary and temporary travel as individuals assess the ongoing situation in the Islamic Republic of Iran. The majority of Iranian arrivals subsequently returned to the Islamic Republic of Iran, primarily as their visits were trade related.
