Feedback from people assisted

Post distribution monitoring (PDM) is an exercise conducted independently from the cash distribution itself, aiming to collect information to assess the impact of the cash assistance. It includes assessment of how well the objective of the assistance was met, coping strategies and spending habits. PDM findings will be used to verify compliance with agreed procedures and detect irregularities. The PDM findings are used on the programme cycle in order to improve the design, calculation and delivery of cash assistance. In general, in Slovakia, the PDM results shows that 46% of beneficiaries had their living conditions improved due to cash assistance given. Additionally, 78% had their financial burden decreased because of the cash assistance, and therefore reducing the feeling of stress.
