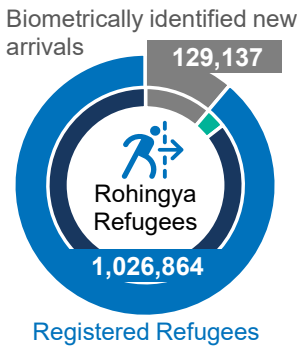
Rohingya refugee population in Bangladesh

1,156,001 individuals

240,590 families



1990s registered refugees

38,747 individuals 8,504 families

In early 1990s, Rohingya flee violence and persecution in Myanmar's Rakhine State. While most return, some remain in Bangladesh with the status of 'registered Refugees'.

Post-2017 refugees

988,117 individuals 198,196 families

In August 2017, more than 740,000 refugees flee military clearance operation in Myanmar's Rakhine State, in what was the largest and swiftest forced movement in the region in decades.

Biometrically identified new arrivals

129,137 individuals 33,890 families

From 2024, targeted violence and persecution in Myanmar's Rakhine State forces thousands of Rohingya to seek safety in Bangladesh. Unlike Refugee registration, biometrically identified individuals are not issued with individual Refugee identity documents, rather family cards to facilitating lifesaving assistance.

As of 31 Aug 2025, UNHCR Bangladesh has registered/identified 1,156,001 Rohingya Refugees (240,590 households) who fled persecution in Myanmar. Significant waves of arrivals occurred in 1990 and 2017. New Refugees continue to seek safety in Bangladesh since 2024 due to escalating conflict in Rakhine State. As a result, a wave of new arrivals to the camps was identified in late 2024, and their biometric identification is ongoing.

78% of the Refugees are women and children, while 11% are individuals with specific needs including persons with disabilities, single parents, those with serious medical conditions, unaccompanied minors, older persons at risk, and others requiring legal and physical protection. 52% of the population is female and 48% male. The largest age group (44%) comprises adults aged 18–59. The average household has five members: around 35% of families consist of 4–5 people, while 11% live in households of eight or more.

The 33 camps in Cox's Bazar are densely populated: covering 23.6 square kilometers, the population density is of 47,000 per square kilometer, one of the highest in the world.
