

Overview

Quarter Four Narrative

The livelihoods and resilience sector aim is to ensure that refugees and asylum seekers live peacefully with their host communities, and progressively attain self-reliance in a conducive environment for sustainable livelihoods. By the end of the fourth quarter, funding for sector activities stood at 23 per cent ($ 30.8 M), against a budget of $132M, for the year 2023. Overall, compared to 2022, the funding for the sector declined by 49% in 2023. In quarter four partners have increase efforts that support refugees access more land compared to 2022 by about 3,000 acres. The sector concluded the development of settlement level strategies which will guide partners in each settlement to address context specific issues for greater impact.

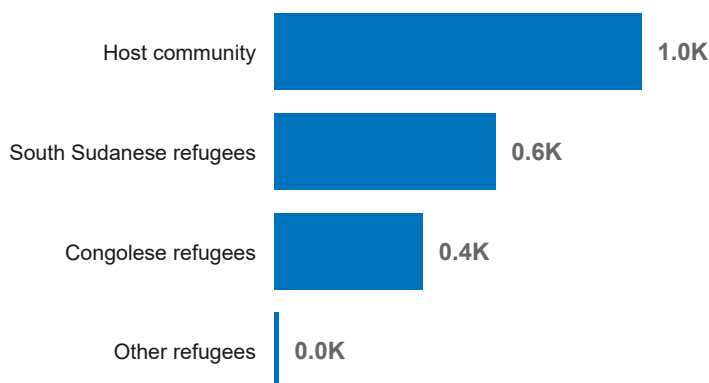

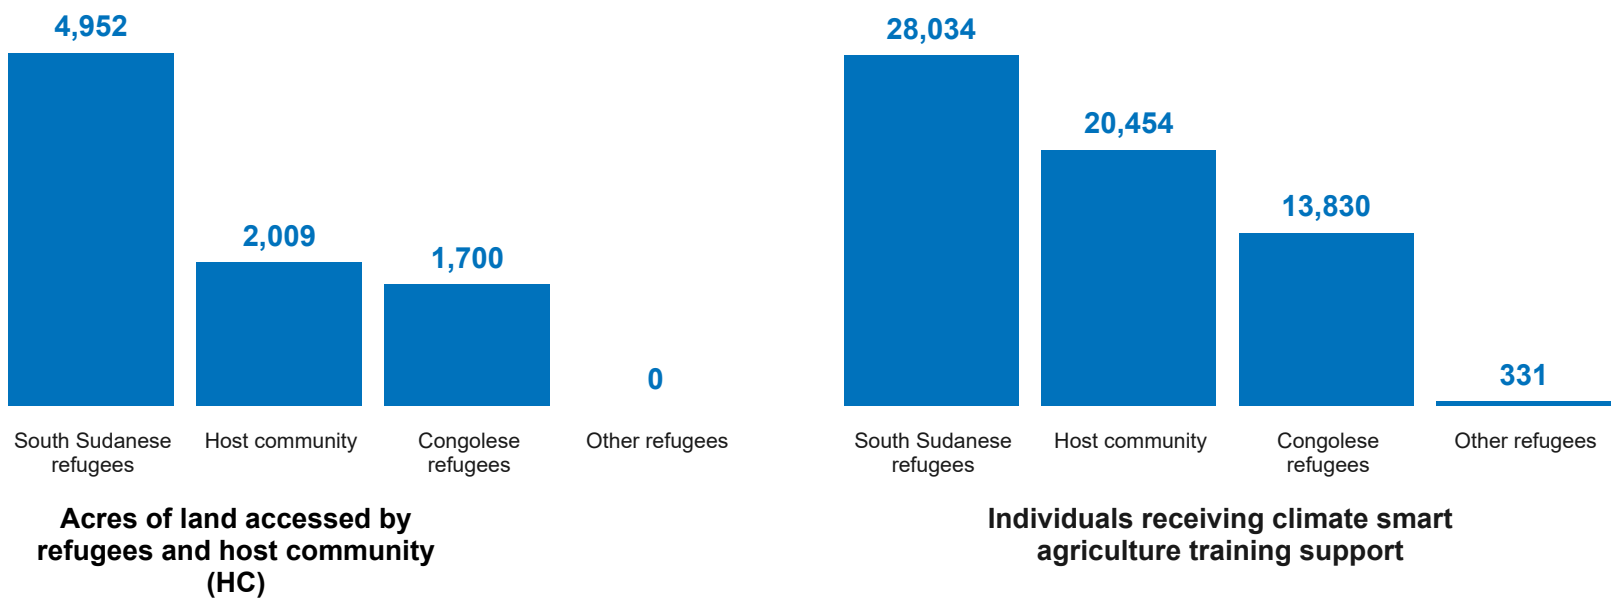

Challenges:

- Increasingly food insecurity from 37% in 2020 to 55% in 2022 and 67.7% in 2023 (source FSNA)
- Agriculture remains a key sector for refugee livelihoods and employment, with land as a major constraint
- WFP is implementing food prioritization - need to scale up support to households, especially those faced with reduced/ration cut
- While 3 out of 10 refugee household utilized financial services (FSNA 2022), only 46% reported accessing credit (IPE 2022)
- Effects of climate change (El-nino) – result in poor crop harvests, often depleted within 1-2 months, thus reduced incomes

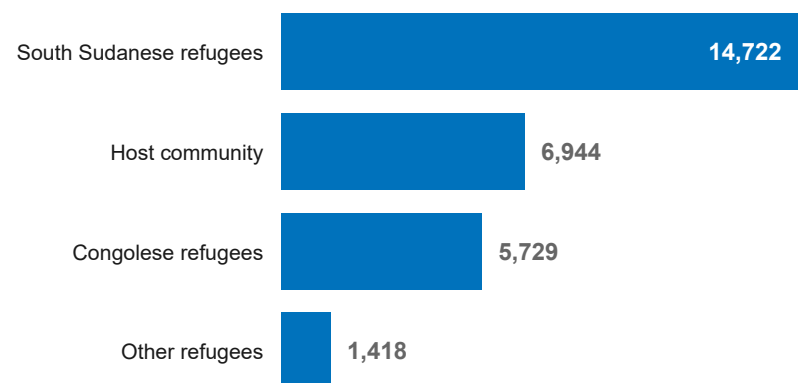

Key Priorities

To increase self-reliance and resilience in the refugee hosting communities, the sector has prioritized strengthening coordination with the government, UN agencies, non-governmental organizations, the private sector, and development partners at the national and settlement levels. The sector will continue with advocacy for refugee access to arable land, climate-smart agriculture technologies, and financial and business development services. The sector will continue to advocate for multi-year funding, strengthen thematic coordination around key sector priorities of graduation, value chains, market systems development, skills & entrepreneurship.
