Learning and teaching materials	428,200 USD

IF FUNDING REMAINS INSUFFICIENT

More than 114,000 refugee children in primary education will be out of school from April to December 2023

- Closure of schools.
- Heightened protection risks for refugee children.
- Impact on daily school meal: refugee children will not receive their daily meals at schools, with a significant impact on their attendance and performance.
- Loss of livelihoods for 688 national teachers and 1,479 refugee incentive workers.
- Increased secondary movement.
- Impact on peaceful co-existence with the host community.

15,202 refugee students in secondary education will not be able to continue their education in 2023

Inability of refugee students to sit for their exams in 2023:

Approximately 3,000 refugee students may not be able to sit for their exam and receive their secondary school leaving certificate (completion of grade 12) in October 2023, undertaken in public universities, due to lack of funding to cover the logistical costs.

1,700 refugee students enrolled at universities will not be able to continue their education in 2023

No funding to secure allowances for refugee students:

There is no funds allocated to support allowances for refugee students enrolled in public universities under the Government subsidized scholarship programme managed by RRS. This means that these students will not be able to continue their education.
