Funding Required

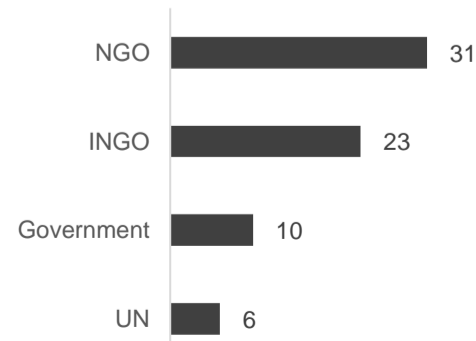

Although the financial tracking system (FTS) denotes that the Sector has been provided with 8% of funding towards its target of 113.7 million, this does not reflect the full funding picture for Protection operations in 2018. Many Protection interventions have been funded thus far through internal agency sources, including unmarked contributions, that are not included in the tracking system. Any such sources of funding will be reflected at years end within the financial tracking system.

Protection

Achievements: The protection sector collectively reached 1,392,933 (Protection: 445,523, CP:585,920, GBV: 361,490) individuals between January and June 2018. This amounts to 52% of the 2.7 million individuals targeted in the 2018 HRP. Resources remain scarce as there are many unmet needs. Numbers keep swelling with both spontaneous and involuntary movements thereby stretching the capacity of protection sector severely. The vast majority of the displaced are in Borno State, with a total of 1,153,953 reached; 144,681 in Yobe and 94,299 in Adamawa.

In June 2018 alone, 163,331 individuals were reached with protection operations, which includes 112,082 screened/registered through protection monitoring, vulnerability screening, refugee returnee registration and profiling of IDP returnees; 26,729 provided with protection-based material assistance; and 16,712 reached with protection messaging, including on core human rights principles, peaceful coexistence and housing, land and property rights.

The sector has prioritized responses in areas receiving new arrivals in recent months, due to displacement by heightened military operations, namely in Pulka, Tungushe, Gwoza, Ngala and Monguno. NHF funds have been allocated in those areas to provide life-saving interventions with a focus on protection monitoring and response; referrals for specialized services such as medical, legal as well as addressing the needs of persons with special needs such as unaccompanied and separated children, the elderly, individuals with physical disabilities and mental health issues; protection-based material assistance, such as provision of charcoal and energy saving stoves to mitigate the risk of attacks on women when they go out in search of firewood; and documentation, registration, vulnerability screening and profiling. Eight key protection partners have provided scaled up protection interventions to the recently displaced populations in Pulka, Tungushe, Gwoza, Monguno and Ngala, namely, UNHCR, UNICEF, UNFPA, WFP, IOM, AIPD, GISCOR and FHI 360.

The Sector has gained headway in key advocacy initiatives in the first half of 2018, namely in working to support the passage of the Child Rights Law in Adamawa State, engaging the government to start an Access to Justice and Rule of Law Technical Committee in Yobe State to review critical laws, and on facilitating a dialogue with the military on gender-based violence issues through a regular meeting forum in Borno State. Further, the PSWG supported the drafting and finalization of the HCT Centrality of Protection Strategy and Action Plan. In 2018, the PSWG has further focused on expanding its coordination outside of the state capitals, with PSWGs now convening in Mubi, Adamawa State and in multiple LGAs in Borno.

Way forward: Funding remains critically low despite some great efforts made in the first half of the year. As it stands, the protection sector requires $113.7 million for some 40 projects in the OPS. Only 8% has been received so far to enable the 8 protection actors deliver life-saving interventions in the specified areas. So far, the sector has submitted to NHF 7 projects under the Reserve Allocation, 2, 3 and 4 received $2.1 Million for protection response for a targeted 87,450 most vulnerable individuals. This allocation covers Gender Based Violence, GBV and Child Protection, under a joint UNICEF/UNFPA proposal under Reserve Allocation 4.

Protection by presence in the deep field is an on-going concern coupled with staffing constraints in the sector. Lack of partners coupled with institutional capacity of predominantly local NGOs in critical areas in Borno marks a significant gap in the capability to ensure adequate coverage of protection response throughout the most affected LGAs.

OXFAM pulled out of the response in Tungushe and Pulka and UNHCR had to rapidly scale up to take over the two initial project proposals submitted by OXFAM and approved by NHF. The sector is advocating with its members to deploy to the deep field to strengthen the overall response.

Cases of forcible returns and refoulement continue to be registered and many refugee returnees are staying in situations of secondary displacement with huge gaps in assistance provided.

The planned facilitated returns of 4,000 Nigerian Refugees from Cameroon as part of the voluntary return envisaged by the Tripartite Agreement between Nigeria, Cameroon and UNHCR has stalled due to the government's decision to fly back the returnees as opposed to using road travel. This was agreed on by the Tripartite Commission in December 2017 and discussed during the meeting thereafter in June 2018.

The Child Protection Sub-Sector coordinator left the operation in January 2018 and the replacement is expected in Maiduguri in August 2018.

Child Protection

Achievements: During June, Child Protection organisations provided psychosocial support to 42,297 children, adolescents, and caregivers. Integrated case management services were provided to 1,894 children including 34 children who were reunified with their caregivers and 142 children who were either placed in alternative care or whose cases were followed up. In addition, 242 children formerly associated with armed groups or returned from administrative custody received socio-economic reintegration services.

In collaboration with Borno State Ministry of Women Affairs and Social Development (MWASD), the sub-sector carried out two trainings on GBV and PSEA in five LGAs. Some 64 females and 168 males, including religious leaders, traditional leaders and community members were trained on GBV, focusing on stigma reduction, social cohesion and reintegration of survivors of conflict related sexual violence. In June the sub-sector developed an inter-agency Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) for the movement of separated and unaccompanied children for family reunification purposes using UNHAS. The draft SOP has been shared with the UNHAS Steering Committee for review.

Way forward: Capacity building training for child protection actors is planned for coming months in order to improve technical capacities.

The issue of accommodation in Rann, Kalaberge LGA, continues to impede sustained delivery of the child protection programme in Rann. To remedy this, UNICEF has renovated and will furnish a building allocated by the local government to be used as accommodation for Child Protection partners.

Gender-based Violence

Achievements: GBV sub-sector partners reached 75,756 individuals during the month of June with a range of GBV response and prevention services including case management for psychosocial support and medical, safety and security services. Over 4,000 women and girls received material support including dignity kits. Some 4,500 women and girls have been engaged in various services within Women and Girls Friendly Spaces (WGFS), while 702 individuals have benefitted from skills acquisition programmes.

Contextualized referral pathways have been developed for Bama and Gwoza towns in Borno State and the referral pathway for Yola in Adamawa State has been revised. These referral pathways are pivotal to facilitating the process for GBV survivors to get in touch with an individual professional or institution about their case.

The sub-sector carried out a four-day GBV/PSEA training of Trainers for military focal persons from the Nigerian military's 7th Division. The 28 focal points were from Maiduguri, Bama, Konduga, Banki, Mafa, Gwoza, Pulka, Ngoshe, Chibok and Askira/Uba and will be working closely with field partners to facilitate reporting and referrals for survivor assistance and accountability. The focal points will also provide training to field-based officers to raise awareness and facilitate engagement. This training marks the foundation for the development of formal cooperation and information sharing initiatives with the military to enhance referrals and accountability through an integrated GBV and livelihoods intervention that seeks to strengthen survivors' resilience and provide income generation opportunities.

Over 700 women, men and adolescent girls are benefiting from economic livelihood opportunities in Borno and Adamawa states.

Way forward: The GBV sector will be finalizing and operationalizing the framework guidelines for GBV sub-sector interventions at RCs and transit facilities. The sector will also carry out a four-day training on GBV tools for data gathering organisations in Borno, Adamawa and Yobe states.
