WEEKLY HIGHLIGHTS

- Large areas in Kharkivska and Khersonska oblast are becoming newly accessible to the humanitarian agencies, allowing needs to be assessed and support to be provided to people who have endured months of heavy fighting. UNHCR contributed to the first UN humanitarian convoy to deliver aid to the newly accessible areas of Kharkivska oblast. More on next section (pg.2).
- Close coordination and communication with the Government remains a key priority. On 13 September, UNHCR joined the first coordination meeting on newly accessible territories where state authorities discussed the major needs of conflict-affected population.
- Over the past week, 30 houses were finished with repairs and insulation in Kyivska oblast so that families could stay in a warm home during the harsh winter months. Works continue in over 250 homes with many more underway.
- UNHCR is working with the GBV sub-cluster to coordinate capacity enhancement and institutional support of state and non-state GBV actors to enable quality GBV prevention, risk mitigation and response across Ukraine. Several trainings have been facilitated for partner staff over the past two weeks.
- The results of the Collective Sites Monitoring (CSM) Round 2, conducted in July 2022 by the CCCM partners, which provides information on the population profile, multi-sectoral needs, and the most urgent requests provided by the site managers, is now available here. ## Critical items reach communities in newly accessible areas by UN convoy

Communities in the town of Shevchenkove and other areas of Kharkivska oblast were not accessible until very recently. UNHCR contributed to the first inter-agency humanitarian convoys of 13 trucks on 16 and 17 September to the newly accessible communities, delivering more than 35,000 items including thermal blankets, tarpaulins, and solar lamps.

UNHCR and humanitarian partners will continue to work with authorities to support the people who have been cut off from humanitarian assistance since April in such newly accessible areas. Ensuring that they receive the necessary support ahead of the cold season is critical.
