1. Background

As of 30 Nov 2022, Jordan hosted approximately 752,735 registered refugees and asylum seekers, hereinafter persons of concern (PoCs), of all nationalities\(^1\) with diverse protection needs\(^2\). With no immediate solution in sight to the Syrian situation, and observing the protracted nature of displacement situations from Iraq, Yemen, Sudan, and Somalia, in combination with the COVID-19 pandemic's exacerbation of the preexisting socioeconomic challenges – which is also affecting donor countries' economies – it is evident that closer linkages and more substantial complementarity between development and humanitarian actors are required for an effective and sustainable response.

While some refugees have found ways to become self-reliant, humanitarian needs remain. In fact, preliminary results of the 2022 Vulnerability Assessment Framework Population Survey for Refugees Living in Camps,\(^3\) conducted by UNHCR in collaboration with other actors, document the growing destitution faced by refugees and challenges in the domains of health, shelter, food security, debt levels, income, child labor and gender inequities threatening gains made in recent years, in particular within the area of protection.

As demonstrated by the UNICEF-supported National Study on Violence Against Children in Jordan (2019-2020),\(^4\) a considerable number of children are experiencing direct and indirect forms of violence, abuse, exploitation and neglect. The main child protection concerns for children in Jordan, including in the humanitarian situation of the refugee camps, include child marriage, child labour, physical violence, emotional violence, sexual- and gender based violence (SGBV) violence against women, family separation, children in conflict with the law, and children who have been exposed to trauma and psychosocial distress. Children with disabilities, children out of school or children without appropriate parental care are example of children often at heightened risk of violence, exploitation, abuse and neglect.

The Child Protection Sub-Working Group (CP SWG) was established in 2012 to coordinate activities by humanitarian workers designed to prevent, identify and respond to child protection concerns for girls and boys in Jordan, with a particular focus on the humanitarian situation of refugees and other vulnerable groups. The CP SWG is a sub-working group to the Protection Working Group (PWG) with direct reporting requirements.

2. Purpose and Scope of the Working Group

The purpose of CP SWG is to serve as a coordination platform for child protection interventions in the humanitarian response, in alignment with the national child protection system. As a coordination mechanism, the CP SWG provide support to national child protection actors for coordinated, high-quality, child-friendly and gender-transformative interventions to child protection cases. Furthermore, the CP SWG provide support to enhance the national child protection system through the humanitarian/development nexus approach, including ensuring child protection

4. Methodologies

A child protection systems strengthening approach should include actions for duty bearers at all levels – family, community, national and international – to mitigate and respond to the protection risks children are facing. This recognizes that all actors facilitate the circumstances for strengthening national, including community-based, child protection systems, as well as commit to strengthening other national associated systems and sub-system, such as education and health etc.
State actors and partners need to prioritize the protection of children and provide immediate and long-term support to their well-being and development, with an aim to ensuring durable solutions to their problems as soon as possible.

Timely services, interventions and decisions in every child’s best interest are essential, as is ensuring that all interventions take into account the different protection and care needs and capacities of girls and boys and their families.

The following guiding principles are adopted by the CP SWG:

- State responsibility
- Urgency
- Non-Discrimination
- Do not Harm
- Partnership
- Family and community-based approach
- Child Participation
- Best Interest of the Child
- Age, Gender and Diversity
- Accountability
- Leave no one behind
- Gender transformative approach
- Working with other sectors (Health, Shelter, Education, Economic Empowerment, Disability and Age, Durable Solutions, and the PSEA Networks) to ensure that child protection considerations guide all aspects of the sectoral child protection response in Jordan

5. Working Group Proceedings:

The CP SWG is a working group under the PWG, within the JRP and 3RP. The CP SWG shall at least meet on a monthly basis, every third Wednesday of each month. Extraordinary meetings and ad-hoc task forces may be created by the Co-Chairs, at the request of members of the CP SWG, or as per urgency and prioritisation of interventions on a national and sub-national level as they arise. These ad-hoc Task Forces and meetings report to the national CP SWG.

The following is needed from the CP SWG meetings:

- Formal minutes of the meetings shall be prepared and shared with the members in due course for inputs/amendmends;
- A draft agenda is circulated to members of the CP SWG not later than two days before the regular monthly meeting, giving the members the opportunity to suggest additional items for discussion.
- Relevant documents, such as the minutes, should be posted on the Child Protection Working Group data portal at [Working Group: [Protection] Child Protection Sub Working Group - Jordan (unhcr.org)](https://www.unhcr.org/
