Overview →

Overall objective of the Gender-based Violence (GBV) sector

The GBV sector aims at generating longer-term attitude and behavior changes relating to gender roles, norms, and gender-based violence. The sector also ensures that survivors of GBV and those at risk have access to survivor-centered and timely case management services with satisfaction, as well as linking survivors to multi-sectoral support.

Q1 Achievements

In Q1, RRP GBV partners assisted 1,089 GBV survivors who sought assistance reaching 21% of the target indicator. 89% of the survivors were adults and 11% children. Late reporting of incidents remains a concern due to fear of reprisal with many cases presenting with emotional distress and safety threats. Cases of exchange of sex for work/labor is reported in Kampala and cities surrounding the refugee settlements. This is triggered by the economic hardships and increased poverty levels affecting refugees and host communities in the country. Despite the interventions in place, there's a lack of comprehensive services such as safety/ protection houses and livelihood support in the refugee-hosting districts. RRP partners continue to map out and engage Government, Private sector, and Civil Society Organizations in the GBV/CP referral pathway and advocate for the inclusion of CP, GBV refugee, and host community priorities in National and Local Development Policies and Programmes.

Trainings on GBV targeting community structures, partner staff, and duty bearers were conducted, these efforts reached 454 (206 females, 248 males) Women and Men in Functional Structures, Service Providers and Community-Based Structures, with plans to intensify training in Q2. Additionally, a total of 25,045 Forcefully Displaced and Stateless Persons (FDSPs) were reached with GBV messages through community awareness sessions. The GBV sector updated the Sector work plan with prioritized activities to guide the implementation of 2024 activities so that RRP actors can achieve the set targets per indicator. The priorities include heightened GBV prevention activities using community-based approaches and engagement of Refugee and women-led organizations in community mobilization and awareness campaigns, provision of lifesaving GBV case management, data analysis and reporting, GBV mainstreaming across sectors, support and integration of GBV through close collaboration with Government on system strengthening, Capacity building and assessments.

Main challenges and gaps

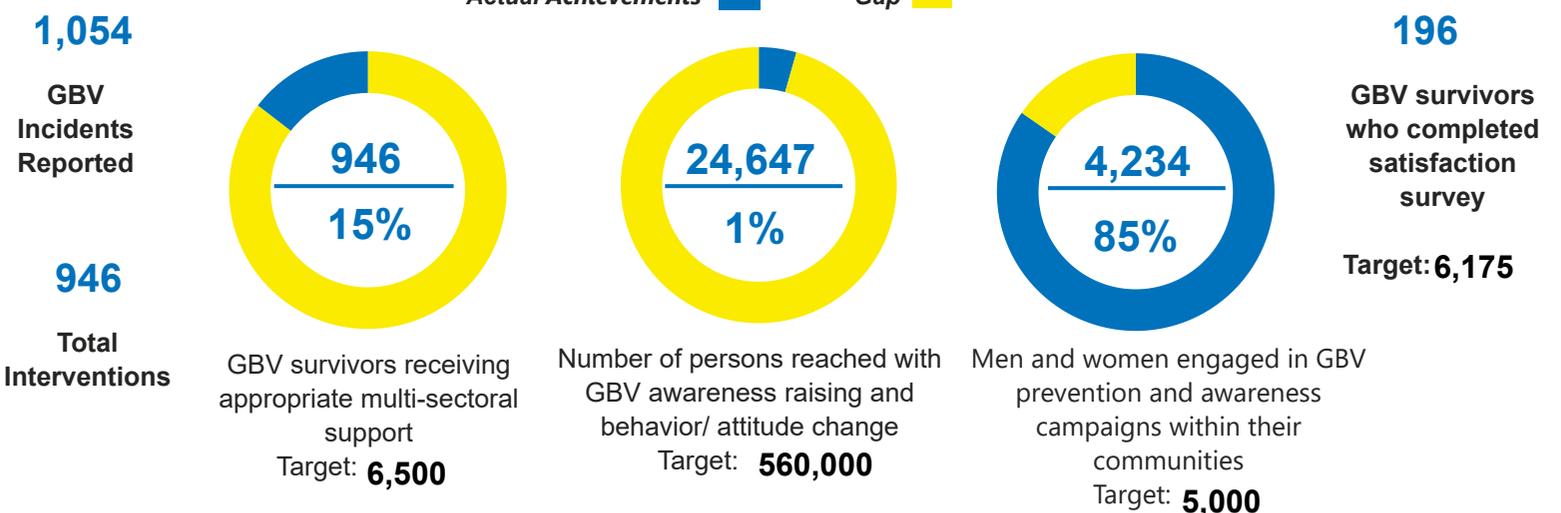

- The limited funds have led to GBV staffing constraints. Case worker ratio and access to survivor-centered case GBV response services remain inadequate due to limited resources. As of March, the current national average ratio of case workers to open cases is 1:51 while the global standard is 1:20. The GBVSWG sector continues to map the case management capacity to identify the gap and strengthen engagement with the Government to ensure comprehensive and inclusive case management approaches and will invest in engaging with refugee/women-led organizations to take the lead in GBV community mobilization and awareness activities.

GBV Sector Priorities in 2024

The sector will continue to enhance coordination of the GBV SWG through enhancing collaboration with the Ministry of Gender, Labor, and Social Development, and strengthening partnerships among UN agencies and other GBV implementing agencies in humanitarian and non-humanitarian contexts for GBV mainstreaming, identify, and engage Refugee and women-led organizations in GBV Prevention and risk mitigation efforts, mainstream GBV across sectors, Strengthen awareness of GBV and PSEA through meaningful community engagement and training of humanitarian actors and service providers and ensure effective data management/reporting through enhanced GBVIMS, GBV Module of proGres v4, and ActivityInfo platform.
