

The Role of Refugee-Led Organizations in Fostering Community Resilience, Socio-Economic Development, and Environmental Care

Presented by
Paulinho Muzaliwa,
Founder of UNIDOS Social Innovation Center
A recipient of the Gene Dewey Refugee Award organized by USA for UNHCR

Introduction

Refugee-led organizations (RLOs) are crucial in creating sustainable livelihoods for refugees. This presentation highlights how RLOs contribute to Community Resilience, Environmental Care, and Socio-economic Development

*Food waste collection by the UNIDOS team
To produce organic fertilizer*

Community Resilience

- Empowering refugees through skills in Entrepreneurship and sustainable agriculture.
- Local ownership promotes resilience and community-driven decision-making.

Socio-Economic Development

Job Creation through Entrepreneurship

- RLOs co-create opportunities for refugees to engage in income-generating activities.

Example: Refugees from permaculture programs produce 4 Tons of onions creating small businesses ,selling their produce and generating income

Environmental Care

Regenerative
Agriculture and Ecological Restoration

- RLOs introduce sustainable practices that restore soil health and biodiversity.

Example: Community Food Forests restore ecosystems and combat land degradation.

Conclusion

RLOs play a transformative role in creating sustainable livelihoods by fostering inclusion, resilience, environmental stewardship, and economic empowerment.

Thank you

Paulinho Muzaliwa | paulinhomz577@gmail.com | <https://unidosprojects.org/>

The Role of Refugee-Led Organizations in Fostering Community Resilience, Socio-Economic Development, and Environmental Care