

In an operational context that remains rife with uncertainty in the tense aftermath of the 28 July presidential elections, UNHCR has continued to provide assistance to the people its serves in Venezuela. Overcoming recurrent obstacles to humanitarian access, UNHCR has been focusing its efforts on the communities that have been most affected by the post-electoral crisis. Supporting initiatives to mend a social fabric that has been torn by violence, fear and mistrust among their members, UNHCR and partners aim to strengthen community resilience and help tackle the cycle of displacement in Venezuela.

 $Indigenous\ Yukpa\ families\ gain\ access\ to\ water\ in\ Sierra\ de\ Perij\'a,\ Zulia\ state.\ @UNHCR\ Venezuela$

KEY Figures

+472K people assisted by

UNHCR Venezuela

+245K

assisted by the Protection Cluster +227K assisted by the Shelter,

+6k

people assisted in emergency response and DRR

Protection

Communication with communities: Information sessions and broadcasting of key messages through media and messaging apps

Individual support: Orientation, legal and psycho-social assistance

Members of institutions, NGOs or community structures trained on protection-related matters

Deliveries to support institutions and prioritized communities

Hygiene kit for people with specific needs

Renovations of health centres

Energy and NFIs Cluster

Shelter, Energy and NFIs

Renovations of premises of institutions and community centres

Donations of Refugee Housing Units (RHU)

Habitat kits for people with specific needs

Direct donations to temporary shelters, prioritized communities, health centres and schools

Disaster Risk Reduction/Climate Action

DRR trainings and information sessions participation of diversity groups

Direct donations to institutions and communities

Prioritized communities Partners

Female - Male

51% 49%

