Highlights

- On 27 March 2014, AFAD - the Disaster and Emergency Management Agency of Government of Turkey - announced that the total number of Syrians registered and assisted in 22 camps located in 10 provinces was 223,943. AFAD reported that during the period of 26-27 March 2014, a total of 594 Syrians were admitted and registered in the camps and 453 Syrians have voluntarily returned to Syria.
- In Ceylanpinar, the camp officials informed the UNHCR field team that new arrivals continued to approach the camp in smaller groups. As of 27 March, there were about more than 80 people at the gate of the camp who were temporarily accommodated in the waiting area until they are registered and placed in tents. The camp officials stated that 33 of these new arrivals were referred by police with the instruction of local officials as they had no place to stay in town.
- Some of these new arrivals stated that they came from Aleppo and crossed to Turkey through unofficial crossing points near Kilis. According to information from the new arrivals there were some more people on the other side of the border who were trying to find their way to Turkey. The camp officials in Ceylanpinar are trying to arrange space in the camp by merging small families using more than 1 tent, in order to accommodate the new arrivals temporarily accommodated in the waiting area.
- In Hatay Yayladagi, despite the heavy fights across the border in Kasab town between the opposition and the Syrian government forces, the local officials informed that there has been no significant influx to Turkey. Reportedly some 100 wounded Syrians including children were brought to Turkey for treatment. UNHCR is in close contact with local officials to monitor the developments. Reportedly there were some movements among villages in Syria, however it is not known whether these people are planning to cross the border.
- Local officials in Karkamis informed that the Social Assistance and Solidarity Foundation (SASF) has conducted house visits and enumerated about 573 non-camp Syrians living in Karkamis, of the estimated 800 or more Syrians living in Karkamis. SASF identified that 400 of those enumerated are vulnerable and in need of assistance. SASF reported that in cooperation with the international NGO, Welhungerhilfe, those identified as vulnerable (elderly and female headed households etc.), will be provided with cash assistance (42 TL per person) and all 573 will be given clothing and foodpackages per family.
