International Catholic Migration Commission (ICMC)

Mission

Responding to the needs of people on the move since 1951, ICMC serves and protects uprooted people; refugees, internally displaced persons (IDPs) and migrants; regardless of faith, race, ethnicity or nationality. ICMC responds to the challenges of people on the move with expertise and action; focusing on protection and durable solutions.

Operational in northern Jordan since 2002, ICMC has been actively supporting vulnerable Syrian refugees and Jordanians in host communities since March 2012 through multi-sector interventions.

Striving to accurately target the most vulnerable individuals, ICMC has visited the homes of more than 33,000 Syrians and Jordanians in order to assess their situation and adequately respond to their needs.

According to the Mid-Year Update, in July 2014, ICMC has appealed for a revised total of USD 2,108,055.

Additional Sector Information

Responding to the rapidly evolving context, ICMCs planned humanitarian intervention has developed to respond appropriately to the needs of the most vulnerable Syrian and Jordanians.

Working closely with all relevant stakeholders, ICMC continues with a cash-for-rent model as well as now providing unconditional cash assistance. These modalities appear to be the best solution to help vulnerable families fulfill specific urgent needs, including rent, and avoid resorting to negative coping mechanisms.

Additionally, after listening to and responding to beneficiaries demands; ICMC also plans to distribute adult diapers; aimed to assist vulnerable elderly people live with increased dignity.

Geographic Focus

With a regional office in Amman, two field offices in Mafraq, and one field office in Irbid, ICMC plans to continue to intervene in northern Jordan during 2014 .

With a special focus on the governorates of Mafraq, Irbid Ajloun, Salt, Madaba and Jerash; ICMC strives to identify the most vulnerable households in rural and isolated areas.

With a focus on “hidden” refugee households who might not otherwise be able to approach organisations for assistance; ICMC uses comprehensive outreach assessments to ensure beneficiaries from across the targeted governorates meet strict vulnerability criteria.
