Achievements

- The 2014 Kigali International Conference Declaration Annual General Meeting was held on 24-25 November. UNHCR, under the One UN, supported security organs from 40 African countries to meet in Kigali to strengthen measures to prevent and respond to sexual and gender-based violence (SGBV). The theme this year was “Turn back crime against women and children”.
- The annual 16 Days of Activism against Sexual and Gender-Based Violence campaign was launched this year with camp-based and urban refugees on the theme of Protecting Rights and Preserving Childhoods: ‘Working Together to Address Child Marriage.’

The purpose of this exercise was the production of refugee IDs for all refugees who had not received IDs in the past. A total of 15,900 refugees were fingerprinted and their photos captured by NIDA. Distribution of IDs by MIDIMAR/UNHCR is expected to start in January 2015.

UNHCR needs considerable support for effective response.

Diplomats were impressed by the efforts of UNHCR and the Government of Rwanda to assist thousands of Congolese refugees accommodated in Rwanda, some for their entire lives.

“We all know Rwanda is a small country with a big population, the generosity of Rwanda to host such a big number of refugees is really commendable.” observed Belgian Ambassador Arnout Pauwels.

“We understand the challenges of education in Rwanda’s refugee camps, in which refugees are only able to reach grade nine. We are looking at how we can comprehensively support the country to assist the refugee population,” said Mr. Jonathan Howard, Political Officer at the US embassy in Kigali.

Mukantabana Seraphine, Minister of Disaster Management and Refugee Affairs, reiterated the commitment of the government of Rwanda to support UNHCR and other humanitarian actors to ensure full protection of refugees.
