HIGHLIGHTS

- During the reporting period, 276 households of 857 South Sudanese refugees were pre-screened and registered with biometrics at Meri site.

- Ongoing arrivals from South Sudan were observed in border localities of Ima, Kurukwata, Lagabe, PK 18 and Mola by protection monitors. Refugees mentioned destruction of fields, burning of houses, fear to be killed by members of other ethnic groups as reasons for flight.
- On March 10th, CNR organised the first convoy from the border locality of Kurukwata to Meri site with 59 south Sudanese refugees. This is the locality where most of the refugee arrives, therefore there is need to have some transit infrastructure like hangars and latrines.

Discussions with women and young groups were organized as well as sport activities like a football match between women refugees and women from host community. Moreover, sensitisations against Sexual and Gender-Based Violence were carried out in focus groups.
