

This monthly update is a coordination tool that aims to improve communication between sectors and up to the Humanitarian Partners Forum. It focuses on processes, rather than achievements. The latter are covered through separate monthly sector dashboards, available through the Inter-Agency Portal and at <http://data.unhcr.org/jordan/sectors/>

EDUCATION

At the beginning of 2018, 130,668 Syrian refugee children were enrolled in formal education and 29,247 were enrolled in Non-Formal Education (NFE). Nearly one in three of the 233,052 registered Syrian refugee school-aged children were out of any form of education at the beginning of the year. Refugee children across Jordan face geographical and socio-economic disparities in access, overcrowded or dilapidated classrooms, low learning outcomes, social tension, bullying and violence, and few learning pathways.

Since the commencement of a new academic year in September 2018, the education sector, has been following up with the Ministry of Education (MoE) in updating the latest enrolment and attendance data. As of December 2018, the MoE data are not available to the public and Open Education Management Information System (EMIS) does not provide timely data either.

UNICEF and partners completed the Kinder Garden (KG) Data in August 2018, which indicated that 84 per cent of five to six-year-old Syrian refugee children have access to KG or KG-like services, an increase from earlier figures which cited 59 per cent of children accessing KGs. The difference identified in the study quantified the number of unlicensed KGs or community centres in the country.

UNICEF and its partners continued its support of the NFE Catch-Up and Drop-Out programmes, having reached a cumulative total of 12,724 children (41 per cent female) while 1,150 children (54 per cent female) successfully graduated from Catch-Up and have been reintegrated into the formal system.

FOOD SECURITY

Around 490,000 Syrian refugees residing in camps and communities received monthly cash based transfers. Refugees living in camps received USD 28 (JOD 20) per person per month. In communities, the extremely vulnerable received USD 32 (JOD 23) while those categorized as vulnerable received USD 21 (JOD 15) per person per month.

By the end of December, WFP concluded its daily in-kind bread distribution to Syrian refugees in camps. WFP, through its supplier, has established eight bread sales points where refugees will be able to buy bread through the iris-scan payment system. To cover the cost of bread, WFP will increase the monthly transfer value from JOD 20 to JOD 23 (USD 28 to USD 32), as of January 2019. This shift will increase refugees' flexibility and freedom of choice, allowing them to buy bread from both bread selling points and WFP contracted supermarkets inside the camps. Sensitization sessions for the supplier on food quality as well as safety, gender and protection were held.

The workshop set three key objectives: identifying results and progress achieved up to the present within the NLG sector; identifying challenges, lessons learned, good practices; finding an agreement on future directions, strategic shifts and innovations required, taking into account an evolving operating
