Yousra Owayed, 31, holds her baby Nour in the kitchen of the apartment she lives with her family.

Yousra and her 36-year-old husband, Nawaf, are members of Kuwait's stateless Bidoon community. Together with their five children, they arrived by sea from Turkey to Greece in July 2018. They reached Chios island where they have applied for asylum and now live in an apartment in Thessaloniki provided by NGO SOLIDARITY NOW through UNHCR's ESTIA program, funded by the European Commission.

Overview

By the end of March 2019, UNHCR had created 25,799 places in the accommodation scheme as part of the ESTIA programme. These were in 4,427 apartments and 18 buildings, in 14 cities and 6 islands across Greece.

The Accommodation Scheme<sup>1</sup> provides rented housing to vulnerable asylum-seekers and refugees in Greece. Urban accommodation helps restore a sense of normalcy and provides better access to services, including education and health. People are additionally supported by social workers and interpreters who help them access medical services, employment, language courses and recreational activities.
