Aisha, 10, holds her eight-month-old sister, Farah, in the house they share in Athens with their parents, Almlihan Kanwah and Alghafor Isa, and their five siblings. The family of nine fled their village in Syria in 2018, when the eldest son was injured in a bombing. From Turkey they passed to the Greek island of Lesbos, where they stayed at Moria reception center before being settled in a rented apartment in Kallithea, provided by UNHCR's partner ARSIS as part of the EU funded ESTIA program.

Overview

By the end of July 2019, UNHCR had created 25,265 places in the accommodation scheme as part of the ESTIA programme. These were in 4,426 apartments and 14 buildings, in 14 cities and 6 islands across Greece.

The Accommodation Scheme¹ provides rented housing to vulnerable asylum-seekers and refugees in Greece. Urban accommodation helps restore a sense of normalcy and provides better access to services, including education and health. People are additionally supported by social workers and interpreters who help them access medical services, employment, language courses and recreational activities.
