Operational Context

As the situation remains unstable in North East Syria, some Syrian refugees are forced to flee their homes and to seek safety across the border in neighbouring Iraq. Refugees are crossing through two main informal points, Sehela and Al Walid. The two main camps receiving the new arrivals remain Bardarash and Gawilan camps. As both locations are now reaching full capacity, the authorities are identifying an additional site. Coordination mechanisms remain the same with twice weekly interagency coordination meetings ongoing at Bardarash camp and a fortnightly inter-agency coordination meeting in Duhok.

Achievements

During the period between 17- 23 November, newly arriving Syrian refugees have benefited from the following assistance:

PROTECTION

Achievements and Impact

- As of 24 November 2019, 14,417 Syrian refugees have been registered with UNHCR, out of whom 47% are female, 53% are male, and 51% are children. Main areas of origin of those registered are Qamishli (34%) and Ras al Ain (34%), Ain Al Arab (10%), al-Hasakeh (8%) and al-Malika (6%). At-risk and extremely vulnerable individuals are being fast-tracked for registration.

INTER-AGENCY OPERATIONAL UPDATE

- Protection assessments for 46 cases, mostly for pending reactivation, were conducted by relevant partners at the camps.
- Identification of unaccompanied and separated children is ongoing along with Best Interest Assessments (BIAs) and Child Protection assessments. As of this week, 40 BIAs (20 in Bardarash and 20 in Gawilan) were conducted by protection partners in response to children-at-risk.

- Community Outreach Volunteers (COVs) conducted community mobilization activities, as well as information dissemination and sensitization activities in Bardarash and Gawilan camps. Key messages were about anti-fraud, registration process, basic hygiene, fire prevention and other available services. They also assisted families of persons with specific needs.
- A total of 105 new arrivals have voluntarily returned to Syria during the reporting week bringing the total to 334 individuals returning. Pre-return rapid surveys and protection counselling are conducted for families/individuals who express their wish to return to Syria. Individuals who wish to return are supported by Assayesh and return through Peshkabour crossing point. Overall, the reasons for wanting to return include: desire to reunite with their families (33%); lengthy Assayesh clearance procedures to depart camp, tied to restriction on freedom of movement (31%); Quality of services (including medical treatment) in the camps not meeting expectations of refugees (12%); relatively safer conditions in Syria reported by family members (8%); lack of livelihood opportunities (6%) and others reasons including financial challenges, monitor property, homesickness etc. (10%)
