Situation Overview

During this period, the refugee population in the DRC increased considerably from 517,108 on 11/30/2021 to 524,148 on 12/31/2021, an increase of 7,040 people. The increase of 7,040 people in the number of refugees during the month of December is explained by the registration of new arrivals from South Sudan (620), the registration of 4,180 births: Burundians (65), Central Africans (2,824), South Sudanese (1,175), Rwandans (116) and regularizations of 2,240 people: Burundians (35), South Sudanese (506), Central Africans (1,686) and Rwandans (13). The decrease in the number of refugees on December 31 is due to the repatriation of Rwandans (108) and Central Africans (1,075) and the inactivation (absence during verification or spontaneous departure) of South Sudanese (23). As of December 31, the number of asylum seekers in the DRC is 2,222 including: 63 Central Africans, 1,114 Burundians, 74 Rwandans, 731 South Sudanese and 240 of other nationalities.

Refugee Population by Country of Origin

Comments about the figures of Central African refugees

The security situation in the Central African Republic (CAR) deteriorated during the period preceding or following the presidential and legislative elections of December 27, 2020. This situation resulted in an influx of refugees in neighboring countries and in particular in the DRC in the provinces of North Ubangi, South Ubangi and Bas Uele. As of December 31, 2021, the number of Central African refugees is 212,895. 1,075 people were repatriated to the Central African Republic in December from the Boyabu camps. This means that the number of Central African refugees and asylum seekers in the DRC is therefore equal to 212,958 people, including 212,895 refugees and 63 asylum seekers. As of November 30, we had already issued 20,959 refugee identity cards.
