

UKRAINE SITUATION

RECALIBRATION - REGIONAL REFUGEE RESPONSE PLAN

MARCH - DECEMBER 2022

Regional Refugee Response Plan
For the Ukraine Situation

INTRODUCTION

Six months after the invasion of Ukraine by the Russian Federation, the Ukraine refugee situation remains one of the largest forced displacement crises in the world today. As of mid-September, over 7 million people – 90 per cent of whom are women and children – have fled into neighboring countries, with many continuing their journey onwards to other destinations.¹ Close to 4 million refugees have applied for temporary protection or a similar national protection scheme. An additional 6.9 million people are displaced within Ukraine,² and some 17.7 million are in urgent need of humanitarian assistance inside the country.³

The generosity of host countries and communities has been exemplary, with families opening their homes to welcome refugees from Ukraine. In the spirit of the Global Compact of Refugees and a whole-of-society approach, national and local non-governmental organizations, including refugee-led organizations, have played a critical role in the response. At the same time, under the overall leadership of host Governments, humanitarian partners have continued to support, advise and complement the national response through coordinated interventions, many of which were captured in the original Regional Refugee Response Plan (RRP) developed in early March 2022 and revised on 25 April 2022.

The RRP outlined the multi-partner, multisector response strategy and financial requirements of 142 partners supporting the Governments of Hungary, Moldova, Poland, Romania and Slovakia, and other countries, including Belarus, Bulgaria and the Czech Republic, to provide protection services and urgent humanitarian assistance to refugees from Ukraine, third country nationals – including those in need of international protection and others who will want to return to their countries of origin – and impacted host communities. The RRP was developed to cover the period March through December 2022, focusing on key sectors including protection, health, education and basic needs, such as accommodation, water, sanitation and hygiene, and logistics. Transitional cash assistance was identified as a key modality in providing dignified assistance to refugees.

The upcoming winter poses many challenges in the response going forward, particularly for vulnerable groups both inside Ukraine and in the refugee-hosting countries. A recalibration of the existing activities in the 2022 RRP was essential to ensure that the coordinated response is better positioned to address the needs of refugees prior to the onset of winter, given anticipated needs. The adjusted strategies and activities outlined in the present Addendum are also to pave the way for the response in 2023, as the winterization response will continue into the new year. In addition to adjusting the original document to incorporate winterization costs and reflect changed population figures, this recalibrated RRP also measures progress and highlights achievements over the past six months.

REGIONAL CHAPTER

Since the publication of the original RRP document, the number and distribution of refugees across the region have changed significantly. Population outflows from Ukraine have continued, evolving in line with the conflict dynamics. As of 13 September 2022, 7.28 million refugees were recorded across Europe.⁴ Some refugees have moved back to Ukraine but many did so without knowing for how long. Pendular movements are observed, with regular border crossings both from and to Ukraine. It is expected that refugee flows into neighboring countries will continue due to the ongoing situation inside Ukraine, with an increased number of new arrivals in the case of any significant escalation.

In addition to conflict-driven movements, it is expected that the onset of winter may also trigger further displacement. Millions of Ukrainians are currently living in damaged homes or buildings ill-suited to provide sufficient protection from harsh winter conditions. Inadequate shelter particularly impacts vulnerable groups, including elderly, people with disabilities, people with chronic illnesses, and children. The Government of Ukraine, with support from humanitarian partners, is leading preparation and implementation of winterization activities. These may fall short of the full extent of needs on the ground, however, triggering further internal and cross-border displacement.

Taking into account refugee movements to date, anticipated new displacement, onward movements, and projected new arrivals, the refugee population figures for 2022 set out in the RRP document have been revised upward from 8.35 million to 9.65 million (as shown in the table below). It should however be noted that this figure involves reductions in the populations for many of the countries featuring in the RRP. This has not directly translated to reduced budgetary requirements, given that many of the refugees who remain in RRP countries are becoming increasingly vulnerable and require additional assistance, as displacement becomes more protracted, support from volunteers and host communities wanes, refugees' savings are exhausted, and challenges remain regarding full and effective access to national social protection systems.

COUNTRIES	Refugee Population – Projected in RRP Document	Refugee Population - Recalibration
Poland	2,600,000	2,000,000
Republic of Moldova	250,000	200,000
Romania	350,000	350,000
Hungary	250,000	250,000
Slovakia	200,000	200,000
Czech Republic		500,000
Bulgaria		200,000
Other countries	4,700,000	5,950,000
Total	8,350,000	9,650,000

At the same time, refugees from Ukraine currently residing in host countries may face challenges related to winter. Many are living in private accommodation that may not be adequately insulated, heated, or equipped for winter weather. Rising fuel costs may also prove a complicating factor, as this may limit the capacity of private citizens to continue hosting refugee families or cause refugees to exhaust their savings, limiting their ability to purchase food or meet other basic needs. Refugee accommodation centres, similarly, may require further investment to install or improve heating systems, provide thermal blankets and winter clothing, and ensure sufficient fuel or cash for heating expenses. Governments, meanwhile, may be seeking to address the challenges associated with heating costs through subsidies for both the refugee population and their own citizens.

⁴ <https://data.unhcr.org/en/situations/ukraine>

As explained above, challenges related to winterization, in particular, are at the centre of recalibration of the activities and budgets included in the 2022 RRP. Partners will continue to support host governments in planning and responding to winter-related needs of refugees from Ukraine. The main modalities of winterization support in the region include provision of core relief items, including winter clothing, blankets and other items essential during the cold winter months; targeted cash assistance for the most vulnerable to meet their basic needs, including for dignified accommodation; other shelter support including renovation and winterization of accommodation and reception facilities, where appropriate; and continued efforts to mitigate the increased risks of gender-based violence (GBV), sexual exploitation and abuse (SEA) and other types of abuse that are associated with inadequate accommodation.

In line with these considerations, the RRP as a whole was adjusted, with partners prioritizing, generally within their initial budgets, provision of winterization assistance to meet urgent needs. At the same time, activities that were not able to be implemented were removed and unanticipated expenses were added. Upon the conclusion of these adjustments, the overall financial requirements for the 2022 RRP decreased by USD 60.6 million, amounting now to just under USD 1.8 billion. In addition, Bulgaria and Czech Republic have been separated out from the “Other Countries” chapter, in line with the significant number of refugees hosted and indications that these will continue to be critical countries in the response. Further details of the achievements, challenges, and priorities at country level are contained in the country chapters below.

POLAND

Current situation

As of 26 September 2022, nearly 1.4 million refugees from Ukraine have been granted a national identification number (PESEL) in Poland. It is estimated that as of 31 December 2022, up to two million refugees from Ukraine could be in Poland. This figure considers that in addition to PESEL-registered refugees, an additional 30 per cent of refugees in Poland (based on the PESEL figure) are not registered yet and that additional refugees may arrive by the end of the year. According to the protection profiling and monitoring data collected between May and August, 71 per cent of refugees in Poland intend to stay in the country in the near future. Although arrival rates of refugees into Poland have decreased since the early months of the war, refugees who entered Poland at later stages demonstrate higher degrees of vulnerability, often arriving without a clear destination or any family or established community support networks in Poland.

Achievements

On 12 March 2022, the Government of Poland adopted the Act on Assistance to Ukrainian Citizens in the Context of the Armed Conflict in Ukraine, providing broad protection to Ukrainian nationals who fled the conflict in Ukraine after 24 February, including extended legal stay, access to employment, healthcare, education and some financial assistance, facilitated through PESEL registration. Under this inclusive national framework, RRP partners have supported and complemented the response of the Government, collectively reaching more than 526,000 individuals with assistance, including cash, non-food items, and access to information and protection services, across all 16 regions of Poland by 30 June 2022.

Challenges and key priorities

Under the recalibration exercise, RRP partners have prioritized additional cash, protection, and education activities to address emerging and increased needs foreseen in the coming months related to winter, accommodation and the reduction of subsidies for hosting families, the increased cost of living amid rising energy costs, and the integration of refugee children into the Polish education system. For refugees living in collective shelters, anticipated needs include heating devices, warm winter clothing and other items to cope with the winter season. Authorities are also increasingly aiming to encourage refugees to move to individual housing because many collective shelters are required for their initial purposes, for example schools or commercial facilities, or need to be vacated for contingency capacity. In tandem, there is concern that with the end of short-term financial subsidies for hosting families – with the exception of a small minority of families hosting refugees considered most vulnerable – and increased energy costs, private accommodation options may become more difficult for refugees to obtain and rely on. Likewise, refugees already in private accommodation may face increased vulnerability as heating and rental costs increase.

Accordingly, cash assistance is a priority among RRP partners to support the most vulnerable individuals' expenses for rent, heating and electricity, clothing, and other basic needs. Distribution of essential relief items and winterization kits to newly arriving refugees and those identified as in need in the country will complement cash-based interventions, while counseling on access to social protection and services will be further enhanced. Education partners will also continue strengthening activities aimed at fostering Polish language skills and preparatory classes in learning environments. In total, these additional activities have added USD 37.1 million to the recalibrated RRP budget for Poland.

MOLDOVA

Current Situation

As of 12 September 2022, more than 600,000 border crossings from Ukraine had been recorded, while 90,745 refugees from Ukraine had been recorded as present on the territory of the Republic of Moldova. Moldova has suffered multiple shocks in recent years in addition to the ongoing Ukrainian refugee crisis. The war in Ukraine threatens Moldova's short-term recovery and long-term economic prospects. Now, burdened with the highest inflation rate in Europe and skyrocketing energy prices, the country faces a challenging winter season ahead.

Achievements

Notwithstanding these challenges, both the Government and people of Moldova have maintained a positive approach to refugees. Moldova has the smallest economy in Europe – yet it has set an example for the world in welcoming refugees into their country, communities, and homes. Key achievements in the refugee response include the timely implementation of cash assistance programmes for both refugees and hosting families, with over 100,000 individuals reached as of 30 June. Additionally, joint advocacy efforts for improved refugee protection contributed to strong commitments by the Government to enhance the legal framework related to the protection regime and legal stay arrangements for Ukrainian refugees in the country. Finally, through the ongoing support of Regional Coordination Forum (RCF) partners, national social protection systems are being strengthened to respond to future shocks, as well as to promote improved responses to situations of GBV and for the protection of children and persons with specific protection needs, including persons with disabilities and older persons. Refugees from Ukraine have been able to access employment and vocational training, legal support, as well as public services, including primary and specialized health care in Moldova. In addition to coordinating preparatory actions for the coming winter, the RCF's partners in Moldova launched an inter-agency contingency planning process in close coordination with the Government of Moldova to prepare a contingency plan coordinating actions among line-ministries and partners to prepare and respond to an eventual mass influx of refugees from Ukraine. Preparedness measures include infrastructure improvements at border crossing points, identification of potential Refugee Accommodation Centres, additional capacity to transport refugees, non-food item stockpiles, enhancement of coordination mechanisms and deployment of Emergency Medical Teams and multifunctional Emergency Protection Units for early deployment if needed, among other key activities.

Challenges and Key Priorities

As refugees' displacement grows more protracted, it will be critical to promote more predictable and equitable responsibility and burden-sharing to ease pressure on the Moldovan society and support it to address the needs of host and refugee communities in the country – in a holistic and inclusive manner, in line with the Global Compact on Refugees and the 'whole-of-society' approach led by the Government. An integrated humanitarian-development-peace nexus approach that focuses on socio-economic inclusion of refugees into society and social cohesion in host communities will support the country to better cope with the upcoming shocks and uncertainty, including in the face of the winter season, when the impact of the energy crisis and rising living costs will likely escalate. It will also be key to keep supporting emergency preparedness efforts in coordination with authorities, strengthening their capacity and resources to scale-up an emergency response if needed.

Upon implementation of the draft decision on temporary protection, information sharing with refugee communities and rollout of registration and documentation activities will be an immediate priority for RCF partners. Additionally, support to the Government in raising awareness and ensuring access to the rights that are attached to temporary protection (e.g. employment, education, health care and social assistance) will be critical. For example, it is expected that school enrolment rates of Ukrainians children will increase if/when temporary protection is granted, putting additional pressure on the national educational system. This will require additional support from RCF partners to the Ministry of Education and Research, Local Public Authorities, and schools to promote the inclusion of refugee children, as well as peaceful coexistence initiatives, while mitigating barriers hindering their participation in learning environments. Moreover, access to a more stable and predictable legal status will likely increase livelihood opportunities for refugees in Moldova, requiring strengthened efforts towards socio-economic inclusion of refugees to become self-reliant.

Notwithstanding the ongoing efforts of partners to meet priority needs, due to the reduction in the number of refugees present in Moldova, the overall budget has decreased by USD 22.7 million.

ROMANIA

Current situation

By 15 September, more than 1.16 million border crossings from Ukraine to Romania had been recorded. To date some 81,158 Ukrainian refugees have remained in Romania, 68,695 of whom have received temporary protection. Most refugees have settled in major urban areas, primarily in private accommodations, which has been fostered by a governmental programme of support to host families, with smaller numbers residing in government-owned accommodation centres. Refugees in Romania benefit from a broad scope of rights provided for in the country's legal framework for temporary protection, and from effective government-led support mechanisms, implemented in close coordination with partners of the RRP.

Achievements

Since the early days of the refugee influx, an effective mechanism was put in place for referrals of vulnerable refugees, including unaccompanied and separated children, persons with disabilities and persons with serious medical needs, both at the border points and through specialized NGOs. Blue Dots and one-stop centres, such as in RomExpo, have been set up, providing a comprehensive set of services and support, from registration to material relief, governmental services - including temporary protection issuance - and legal counseling. RRP partners have successfully launched helplines and information websites and are actively supporting the Government's online activities to help raise refugees' awareness of their rights and of the services available to them. Multi-purpose cash has also been an effective way of empowering refugees, reaching a total of 53,000 people (of whom 27,000 were reached through the programming of RRP partners) by the end of July. RRP partners are supporting refugee-inclusive systems and services, for instance through the piloting of a "refugee-inclusive" clinic at Bucharest University hospital and refugee-inclusive youth and adolescent programs through the national youth network.

Challenges and key priorities

Despite the strong emphasis placed on legal protections for refugees, in practice refugees do face challenges in accessing health, education and social services due to language barriers, unavailability of translators and shortages of classrooms, particularly in urban areas. An overarching challenge to the implementation of targeted activities and programs relates to the uneven distribution of refugees across Romania and the lack of granular data on the locations of refugees' residence. Work will be undertaken with the authorities to map the presence of refugees in order to enhance targeted programming for the remainder of the year.

In a key development, the National Plan of Measures for the Protection and Inclusion of Displaced Persons from Ukraine and Beneficiaries of Temporary Protection in Romania was officially launched on 26 July 2022. The plan represents a shift in approach from acute emergency to longer-term protection and inclusion. To support the implementation of the plan, the Government has established working groups focusing on protection and inclusion in the areas of health, education, employment, housing, vulnerable persons, children and youth, anti-trafficking and GBV. RRP partners are adapting their plans to align with and complement this National Plan, while allowing flexibility to respond to emergencies and emerging needs. For instance, enhanced mobile outreach, including for cash enrollment, has been deployed to reach more vulnerable people across the country. In total, this reprioritization exercise has resulted in a decrease of USD 13.3 million to the recalibrated RRP budget for Romania.

HUNGARY

Current situation

As of 13 September, 1.38 million people have entered Hungary from Ukraine, 29,170 of whom have applied for temporary protection. To date, more than 25,000 people have been granted temporary protection. While a large number of refugees from Ukraine have moved onwards to other EU countries, it is likely that those applying for temporary protection in Hungary represent a fraction of those present in the country, as Ukrainian refugees may enter and reside in Hungary via a diverse set of legal mechanisms. It is expected that refugee flows into Hungary will continue due to the ongoing conflict, with Hungary increasingly seen as a destination and not only a transit country as per indicative intention survey results.

Achievements

The refugee response is coordinated within the framework of the Refugee Coordination Forum and associated working groups, with a focus on basic needs and protection, including child protection and gender-based violence, mental health and psychosocial support, education, and protection from sexual exploitation and abuse. Faith-based organizations and NGOs have been central from the outset of the response in channeling donations and support from the Hungarian community towards refugees, in the form of food, hygiene kits, clothing, products for babies, and accommodation, both to refugees transiting through the country as well as those remaining for more extended stays. Inter-agency help points, Blue Dots, and information and community centres have been created with innovative communication channels, such as Telegram, Chatbot, and QR Self-Service Feedback. Community-led summer camp activities were carried out in the municipalities of Zahony, Budapest, and other parts of the country, with staff and volunteers capacitated on child-focused safeguarding procedures. Mental health and psychosocial support services are being coordinated with necessary information exchange among service providers, including promising practices and identification of service gaps across the country. Finally, refugee-led organizations supported through small grants and capacity building were able to reach out successfully to the refugee community in Hungary, assisting in the process of identifying needs and ensuring the development of tailored programming.

Challenges and key priorities

Going forward, it is critical to note that, notwithstanding investments made in outreach, the low number of refugees registered for temporary protection will present challenges in terms of identifying and reaching refugees in need in order to ensure effective delivery of protection and assistance. Refugees face significant barriers in accessing services independently, given language and administrative hurdles, as well as limited scope for expansion of services to include the refugee population. National capacity for the protection and assistance of persons with specific needs, including children, victims of trafficking and exploitation, GBV survivors, and individuals with severe mental health disorders will need further investment to adapt to the particular needs of refugees, either in transit or residing in areas of the country outside of Budapest. The provision of quality and accessible legal information, including through interpretation, will remain crucial for effective access to rights and services.

In addition to the winterization adjustments common across the region, the recalibration in Hungary entailed significant support to the Hungarian education system to prepare for the inclusion of refugee children. Access to education and specifically to catch-up programmes for children who may have been out of school are key priorities. Coaching for teachers, particularly focused on mental health and psychosocial support and safeguarding, as well as provision of development materials, education kits, and IT equipment are also priorities. Notwithstanding the ongoing efforts of partners to meet priority needs, due to the constraints mentioned above, the overall budget has decreased by USD 30 million.

SLOVAKIA

Current situation

As of 13 September, more than 778,000 border crossings from Ukraine to Slovakia had taken place and 93,384 refugees from Ukraine had been recorded as remaining in Slovakia. The Government of Slovakia is leading the refugee response, with the support of the humanitarian community in the country, including civil society and a strong network of volunteers. The inter-agency response during the first phase of the emergency complemented such efforts through the implementation of the multi-sectoral refugee response plan. The RCF, the inter-agency platform established by UNHCR in cooperation with the Government, will transition to Government-led coordination, at a later stage.

Achievements

Partners have established three Blue Dots safe spaces, protection and support hubs, providing practical support and information to children and their families, including over 36,300 children and caregivers who have accessed mental health and psychosocial support. Through partnerships with the Ministry of Education, the National Institute of Education and Youth, municipalities and local responders, partners have supported some 22,000 children to access formal or non-formal education, including early learning, while some 11,000 have benefited from the distribution of learning materials. Inter-agency partners started enrolment for short-term emergency cash assistance, including for vulnerable children, persons with disabilities and persons with specific needs. To date, more than 26,000 families – or 53,000 individuals – have benefited from the inter-agency program, which has been taken over by the Government. Partners have been working closely with the Government to support refugees with access to quality health services, including over 35,800 children and women. Over 500 Government and partner staff have been trained on key areas of protection, including GBV, PSEA and child protection.

Challenges and key priorities

Going forward, national capacity in key protection sectors such as legal protection, health care, education, child protection, social protection, access to decent work, and GBV risk mitigation and response will need to be strengthened. In this regard, sharing of expertise and knowledge, strengthening of multi-stakeholder engagement, continuous capacity-building of local responders and optimization of mid-term and long-term planning for beyond the end of 2022 will be crucial. It is also important to note that the lack of spots in preschool, primary and secondary school and opportunities for informal learning opportunities for teenagers and youth, as well as limited pathways for recognition of qualifications, constitute barriers to the education and employment of refugees.

In light of these challenges and in addition to the winter-related specific needs, RRP partners have identified other areas for recalibration, including expanding access to education for Ukrainian children in Slovak schools or through informal learning opportunities; ensuring that unaccompanied and separated children and other children who have other heightened risks or special needs have access to protection; addressing GBV prevention, mitigation and response needs and strengthening coordination with Government and civil society stakeholders in this area; increasing access of persons with disabilities to essential services; and reducing barriers to inclusion in the host society, particularly for young refugees. In total, the recalibration exercise resulted in a budgetary reduction of USD 4.4 million.

BULGARIA

Current situation

By 13 September, more than 674,000 refugees from Ukraine had arrived in Bulgaria since February 2022. In the past weeks, a large number have departed and to date, some 67,000 currently remain in the country, most of whom reside in the coastal area. The national accommodation policy, which currently benefits some 18,000 people, is scheduled to end by 31 October 2022 and it remains uncertain whether the stay of the most vulnerable refugees will be extended beyond this date in state-owned accommodation. Furthermore, a caretaker government has been in place in Bulgaria since a 22 June no-confidence vote in the previous administration. A Task Force and six sectoral Working Groups established under the previous administration to manage the national response to the Ukraine situation have also consequently been dissolved, with the resulting lack of a clearly designated government interlocuter for managing the response adding to operational challenges.

Achievements

Partners have jointly opened six Blue Dots where refugees are supported with essential services, safe spaces, protection and legal assistance. Back-to-school and learning information campaigns have been organized in partnership with the Ministry of Education, the Ministry of Health, regional education and health departments as well as NGO partners to ensure children's smooth enrolment and transition to the next school year. A cash-for-protection programme was launched in August 2022 for the provision of one-time assistance to the most vulnerable refugees with heightened protection risks. Some 25,000 refugees are targeted under this programme through the end of the year. Partners have also provided life-saving medical treatment to people fleeing Ukraine and managed a helpline offering psychosocial support in Ukrainian. In the face of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, the Ukrainian and Bulgarian vaccination calendars have been synchronized, and vaccination guidelines have been adapted, translated and disseminated. As of 6 June, some 300 refugee children have been vaccinated in Bulgaria.

Challenges and key priorities

Going forward, strengthening the health sector will be crucial: a shortage of medical supplies, stretched capacity for service delivery and limited health insurance coverage afforded through temporary protection constitute important barriers to refugees' access to health services. It will also be important to continue improving refugees' access to information on the services available to them, including with regards to health, education and employment, and to monitor access gaps and advocate for inclusion. A clear strategy and coordination mechanism on communications with communities will be critical to ensure greater information-sharing and combat disinformation and stigmatization.

Partners in Bulgaria including sub-national education departments, have used the recalibration exercise to focus on back-to-school information campaigns to facilitate children's enrolment and transition to the new school year. The partners will also prioritize the provision of winter-related core relief items and address other winter related health needs, specifically, disease surveillance and prevention and case management for acute respiratory infections. As mentioned above, another priority has been to strengthen health systems, support the national health workforce, support immunization efforts and provide mental health and psychosocial support to the refugees in Bulgaria, many of whom are likely to remain in the country. Partners will also support the Government in conducting vulnerability and intention assessments to ensure continued accommodation for the most vulnerable refugees once the current governmental accommodation programme concludes at the end of October 2022, and will promote inclusion of refugees for longer term solutions within the demographic strategies of local/regional authorities based on the findings of the intention assessments. The expansion of Blue Dot services in other key locations for the provision of legal aid, mental health and psychosocial support, protection and other services will also be prioritized. In total, these activities, including those related to winterization, have resulted in a budgetary increase of USD 3.5 million.

CZECH REPUBLIC

Current situation

By 13 September, over 427,000 Ukrainian refugees had received temporary protection and were estimated to be present in the Czech Republic. The Czech Republic has the third highest absolute number of refugee arrivals in the EU, after Poland and Germany, which represents a significantly higher figure per capita given the Czech Republic's smaller population. The Lex Ukraine law, approved in March 2022 and amended in June, is a package of Government bills that outlines implementation of the Temporary Protection Directive and provides the national legal framework for providing assistance for refugees from Ukraine, including access to health care, employment, social services, education, and childcare, among others.

Achievements

RRP partners have centred the response on supporting national measures and systems of the Government and civil society to deliver assistance and protection. Partners are working closely with line ministries, municipal officials, and regional governments to improve capacity for service provision to refugees—particularly in the city of Prague, where more than one-third of refugees are residing. Alongside provision of support to expand capacity in the sectors of education, health, and social protection, partners are also seeking to provide targeted assistance to vulnerable refugees, including to unaccompanied and separated children, survivors of exploitation and trafficking, ethnic minorities, and other groups with specific needs.

Challenges and key priorities

Refugee movements continue and have become more complex, with cross-border and onward movements. Furthermore, the high density of refugees located in and around the city of Prague has exerted extreme pressure on the existing system of registration and assistance. Government services are overstretched, in particular the education and health systems. There is a risk that the initial unprecedented wave of solidarity by citizens and civil society, including provision of free or subsidized accommodation, may ebb, creating further housing instability for refugees.

Further to priority winter-related needs for warm and dignified accommodation, food and non-food items, partners have reprioritized activities around direct support for access to education and enrollment of refugee children in the national education system, as well as access to health care. Partners are also bolstering information provision around temporary protection and related rights to ensure that refugees are in a position to make informed decisions, exercise their rights, and access services. This recalibration has added USD 1.4 million to the total country budget for the Czech Republic.
