REGISTRATIONS AND PROCESSING IN 2022

ARRIVAL TRENDS

As previously highlighted, entries in BiH continued to rise in September. Among those newly arrived, the number of Burundians confirmed its increasing trend since late May 2022 and the rise even sharpened in the last two weeks of the month, with over 350 Burundians arriving every week. Conversely, arrivals of Pakistani nationals are this month at their lowest level since last February.

In all TRCs, a large fluctuation of persons has continued to be noted, with increased numbers. As a consequence of this high influx and turnover, distribution of non-food items was reduced to most crucial hygiene items. It is also challenging to reach out extensively to such a changing population and to provide them with information about asylum. To adapt to this context, UNHCR's partners directly and proactively inform new entrees at the gates of TRCs, which allows to reach a much larger number of persons in shorter time.

Such high figures call for the authorities to better identify, as early as possible, those who are genuinely interested in pursuing asylum in the country. Their cases should be treated with priority, as well as cases of vulnerable persons.

PROCESSING TIME FOR UKRAINIANS

Five individuals from Ukraine received subsidiary protection status in September. UNHCR commends the efforts made by the authorities for the asylum procedure to be conducted in a timely manner, as Ukraine is the first country of origin of first instance asylum applicants in BiH during 2022 (23%).

Ukrainians in the asylum procedure in BiH in 2022 have indeed experienced reasonably timely response: the average waiting time between the issuance of their attestation of intention to seek asylum (AISA) and registration of their claim was of 30 days, while the average processing time from registration to first instance decision was of 168 days – approximately five months and a half. It is noticeable that within that period, 155 days were for awaiting registration, while only 13 days accumulated between the refugee status determination interview and the decision. Such a timely decision-making is a positive development, that sets the example to be followed for other asylum-seekers in the country, for whom the average waiting time for a decision was of 307 days in 2022.

About the content of decisions, UNHCR advocates for persons whose claim qualifies to be granted refugee status rather than subsidiary protection. Subsidiary protection status should only be granted to individuals who do not fit the definition of a refugee but are facing real risk of serious harm. It is problematic to grant subsidiary protection to someone who likely fits the definition of a refugee, as it denies him or her access to essential rights including family reunification, travel documentation and a path to naturalization.
