

WHY DOES UNHCR WORK IN LIVELIHOODS?

We are convinced of the high potential of Venezuelan refugees and migrants to increase Peru's labour productivity and contribute in the medium-term to generating new employment. Their integration offers a unique opportunity for the country's development and the possibility of improving the quality of life for both Venezuelan and Peruvian population.

Refugees and migrants in Peru encounter difficulties in accessing trades for which they have trained and in reaching their full potential. Moreover, they face additional challenges such as long workdays, insecure work environments, and in some cases, exploitation. UNHCR works hand-in-hand with state actors, regulatory and financial institutions, and civil society to improve the access to the labour market and working conditions for Venezuelan refugees, asylum-seekers, and migrants.

Who does UNHCR work for?

1,5 million Venezuelan refugees and migrants in Peru

46% with some level of post secondary education or training

82% of population in working age exercise their working rights

80,8% of working population work without a formal contract

9 out of 10 Venezuelans in Peru do not work within their profession (2021)

UNHCR's commitments for 2023 and the following years will focus on the regularization and inclusion of refugees and migrants in Peru. This is possible only through adequate documentation and sustainable socioeconomic integration processes.

UNHCR'S RESPONSE IN 2021 AND 2022

Since 2021, UNHCR has supported access to labour markets and options for employment, the promotion of entrepreneurial spirit, and the financial inclusion of refugees and migrants in Peru while, at the same time, strengthening local economies.
