Key Figures

Over 13,000  Refugees and asylum-seekers live in Panama, mainly from Colombia, Cuba, El Salvador, Nicaragua, and Venezuela.

520,085  People crossed the Darien jungle between January and December, doubling the number of refugees and migrants who entered last year.

Context

Protests against Minera Panama's mining contract extended for over five weeks, resulting in mobility issues across the country. Blockades affected buses transporting refugees and migrants from Darien's Temporary Reception Centres (ETRM) to Costa Rica, causing many to continue their journey on foot.

Legislators approved a Law indefinitely suspending the future granting of concessions for metallic mining activities. On 28 November, the Supreme Court of Justice (CSJ) announced the unconstitutionality of Law 406 that approved the contract. Civil society groups, labour unions, and indigenous communities welcomed the decision, and demonstrators opened the blockages.

On December 7, UNHCR and IOM issued a joint statement calling for a stronger response to mixed movements in the scope of the over 500,000 people that crossed the Darien jungle. The Director of the National Migration Service (SNM) mentioned that in 2023, the Government repatriated more than 700 individuals and denied entry to nearly 10,000 people, particularly at Tocumen airport. Since the release of Executive Decree 112, which created a Temporary Protection Permit granting a two-year temporary residency, 10,000 people have applied.

In the framework of the 16 Days of Activism, UNHCR launched its visibility campaign Todas y Todos Podemos Prevenir la Violencia and liaised with the Municipality of San Miguelito to host a community fair to raise awareness against gender-based violence (GBV). Over 100 people participated.
