Spotlight on... RRP partner Sensiblu Foundation – providing psychosocial services, legal counselling and representation, awareness sessions and support groups to people at risk and survivors of gender-based violence.

H., a 19-year-old young woman from Odesa, Ukraine, sought refuge in Romania with her mother after fleeing the horrors of war. Settling in northern Romania, they faced not only the language barrier but also emotional challenges that seemed insurmountable. She says, "I would have never thought that someone would hear me out, make me believe in myself again, find hope when I thought everything was lost." Her healing journey began in the summer of 2023 when she reached out to Sensiblu Foundation for psychosocial support.

Sensiblu Foundation's team, together with a translator, helped her to navigate the difficulties of settling into a new country and culture. "I learned to set healthy limits not only with my friends but with my family too. I learned to say 'NO!' whenever I felt unsafe," she shares. Through their support, H. gained confidence and learned how to address the emotional toll of displacement and trauma. H.'s story is a powerful reminder of the importance of compassion, support, and community in times of crisis.

Since 2022, the Sensiblu Foundation has provided essential support to over 5,000 refugees across Romania, offering free psychosocial services, legal counselling and representation, awareness sessions and support groups to people at risk and survivors of gender-based violence. Sensiblu's services are available in Bucharest, Constanța, Suceava, Vâlcea, and northern Romania.

Identified Needs and Remaining Gaps

- Challenges are reported regarding inconsistent practices in providing social assistance. Notably, difficulties in accessing child allowance and Minimum Inclusion Income with a declared address on the temporary protection permit were raised as concerns in group information sessions with refugees.
- There are ongoing challenges regarding access to health due to difficulties finding a family doctor, language limitations, as well as challenges related to registering on the platform when the insured person presents two different documents to access health services such as when a refugee has requested a new temporary protection permit.
- FONSS and the General Directorate of Social Assistance of Bucharest Municipality (DGASMB) reported difficulties with the digital platform and the application for reimbursement of costs for collective centres hosting refugees that have been accommodated prior to Emergency Ordinance No. 96/2024, as they fit the vulnerability criteria enshrined in the complementary Government Decision.

Child Protection

Identified Needs and Remaining Gaps

Specialized therapy remains a significant need among Ukrainian refugees with specific needs. Many children still require continuous support, especially in areas with limited resources. While short-term treatment needs have decreased, long-term support for severe conditions and access to education and employment opportunities remain priority areas.

Gender-Based Violence

Achievements and Impact

• During the reporting month, many activities were planned to mark the 16 Days of Activism against GBV. The East European Institute for Reproductive Health (EEIRH) highlighted the launch of the Pilot Centre for Sexual Violence Intervention in Targu Mureş, one of the 10 centres nationwide initiated by National Agency for Equal Opportunities (ANES). WHO highlighted ongoing efforts to incorporate GBV education in medical universities. Discussions emphasized updating referral pathways and integrating GBV and MHPSS services into broader service provision, ensuring collaboration among the different layers of services. UNHCR and its partners conducted a series of activities aiming at raising awareness on the need to continue fighting against GBV country-wide. Under this year's theme 'No excuse', UNHCR's campaign started with the launch of the Violencemeter presentation and information session for 25 Ukrainian refugees in Constanţa, laying the groundwork for awareness and empowerment. In Suceava the "No Means No" workshop empowered 14 women to explore their rights and unite in solidarity, while in Rădăuţi 24 women engaged in "Time for Yourself," a reflective session promoting self-care and resilience. In Constanţa, 30 refugee women shared personal stories and strategies to confront violence, and a groundbreaking session for men, "Men in the Mirror: Strength Through Understanding," brought 11 refugee men together to reflect on the roots of violence and foster change. At the Emergency Transit Centre (ETC) in Timişoara, workshops such as "Recognizing GBV", "Art for Equality and Respect", and role-playing scenarios on non-violent communication engaged participants of all ages.

- On 14 November, the Romanian Institute for Human Rights (IRDO) held an event on "Women's Safety: Combating Harassment and Violence" in collaboration with NGO ANAIS and the Association of Women in Romania Together (AFRI), ahead of the International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women (on 25 November). The debate addressed Romania's challenges in gender equality and the pressing issues of sexual harassment and violence against women, underpinned by the fact that Romania currently ranks last in the EU Gender Equality Index.
- During the reporting period, Sensiblu Foundation supported refugees from Ukraine through 44 group sessions attended by 663 people in Bucharest, Constanţa, Râmnicu Vâlcea, and Suceava. These sessions focused on delivering psychosocial support and specialized information, significantly enhancing participants' emotional well-being and capacity to prevent risk situations. The "Safety is Everyone's Right" campaign continued to offer a coherent framework for information, and awareness-raising about domestic violence and preventing violence against minors (at home, on the street, at school, and online) in collaboration with UNHCR and Romanian Police. Sensiblu Foundation also provided 28 hours of individual counselling to 9 persons.
- In November, RRP partner NGO Necuvinte organized two interactive workshops on GBV for 41 Ukrainian refugees at the Edmond Nicolau collective centre. The first workshop addressed forms of violence and healthy relationships, teaching participants to identify various forms of violence, understand their regulation in Romania, recognize warning signs, and access protective resources. The second workshop explored personal and public spaces, with a focus on setting and respecting boundaries and addressing street harassment through practical exercises. These sessions not only informed participants but also fostered self-reflection, with participants gaining a deeper understanding of non-physical abuse and male participants gaining awareness on the impact of behaviours they once regarded as acceptable.

Identified Needs and Remaining Gaps

Reaching the most vulnerable refugees, often at high risk of abuse, remains a critical challenge due to their isolation and difficult circumstances. Women lacking financial resources and facing multiple vulnerabilities feel compelled to remain in abusive relationships. This highlights the urgent need for improved outreach, increased financial and psychological support, and sustainable housing solutions.

Education

- During November, RRP partners continued to support Ukrainian children and their parents with enrolment in the Romanian education system through information sharing, translations, data entry, organization of Romanian courses, preparation of documentation, discussions with school principals, teachers, parents, visits to schools and education hubs, and discussions with key institutions, NGOs, and various other entities to resolve issues related to Ukrainian refugees' inclusion. Data on the enrolment and allocation of Ukrainian children in the national school network is collected at the county level, centralized by the Ministry of Education, and will be shared once validated.
- UNICEF in Romania continued to engage with national, county, and local authorities and NGOs to ensure continuity of education support services, including through partnership agreements to help prolong the operations of education hubs and to advocate for the organization of additional Romanian language courses under the leadership of county school inspectorates to meet the growing demand reported by the Bucharest Municipal School Inspectorate (ISMB) and raised at a meeting with county school inspectorates in November. Educational

- supplies for 7,700 children were distributed to county school inspectorates in Bucharest, Braşov, Constanţa, Cluj, Iaşi, Maramureş, Mureş, Sibiu, Suceava, Timiş, Vâlcea, as part of the back-to-school activities.

- Through dedicated support extended by UNICEF to ISMB and the Education Desk at RomExpo, 369 enrolment requests (116 for preschool/kindergarten, and 253 for school) were registered and processed in Bucharest in November. Interest in Romanian language courses has surged, resulting in 542 requests for courses and testing. In response, the ISMB has extended the registration period for these courses and certification tests.
- JRS, in collaboration with UNICEF, conducted educational afterschool activities at five learning centres in Bucharest, Braşov, and Constanţa for 242 children, as well as 200 children at Pipera Hub and the RomExpo. Support for education activities was done by 21 Ukrainian and Romanian teachers and 2 psychologists in Bucharest and Constanţa working closely with school counsellors for individual support and mediation with parents, teachers, and school management.
- Under a European Union Asylum, Migration, and Integration Fund (AMIF) funded project, JRS implemented various activities in Constanța and Galați, including counselling services on access to education covering enrolment, access to social benefits, and language courses. JRS also supported educational activities for 273 children and 269 adults from Ukraine, with four teachers organising daily Romanian language courses in various formats.

  delivered by four Romanian teachers and learning activities for 60 preschoolers were hosted at a JRS venue in Bucharest.

- World Vision conducted educational activities at four socio-educational centres in Bucharest, Cluj, Constanţa, and Suceava for more than 300 children and included homework assistance, remedial classes, Romanian language classes, and non-formal educational activities, including arts and crafts workshops, English language skills development, outdoor activities, sports, and logic games. World Vision's partnership with schools and kindergartens in Constanţa and Suceava is ongoing, providing continued support for the inclusion and active participation of Ukrainian children in formal education, with some 150 children supported by the initiative in November. In line with World Vision's holistic approach to intervention, the NGO integrated MHPSS, integration, and child protection activities into its assistance programme for Ukrainian refugees.
- Terre des Hommes continued its work in Bucharest, Braşov, and Constanţa together with its partner the Civic Resource Centre and in Baia Mare with City Makers. In Braşov, support focused on different aspects including RIF activities, Psychosocial Support sessions, intercultural and life-skills development, case management and individual

- protection assistance. 259 children participated in intercultural learning and life skills activities at the RIFs, centres and schools.
- CNRR continues to offer counselling on access to education through its regional offices in Bucharest, Braşov, Constanţa, Galaţi, Iaşi, and Suceava. This includes assisting refugees with school/kindergarten enrolment procedure, the recognition and equivalence of studies/diplomas, and referral to Romanian language courses and other educational activities.

Identified Needs and Remaining Gaps

- The national education systems' capacity to integrate all Ukrainian refugee children requires further strengthening. There were delays in the enrolment and distribution of students for the new academic year. There are also inconsistencies in the application process for social scholarships for children with audient status.
- There remains a lack of tailored support services, such as language classes, tutoring, or counselling, to help refugees adjust and succeed in the educational system. The transition from audient to pupil status, recognition of studies, and requirements for the equivalence of studies remain problematic, as does the enrolment and testing of language proficiency.
- In Bucharest, ISMB faces challenges in the process of enrolment and distribution of Ukrainian children in schools.
   New requests for enrolment received are processed and allocation decisions only processed once a week. In Bucharest, the placement of Ukrainian children is difficult due to a shortage of spaces caused closures for school building repairs. Some 60 per cent of schools in Bucharest are full and the remaining 40 per cent are far from the homes of refugees making attendance difficult.
- There has been increased interest in kindergarten and school registration, especially among newly arrived refugees, mainly due to the accommodation assistance programme which requires the enrolment of children in education. Parents want information on the enrolment procedure, educational benefits, and scholarships.
- Romanian language courses need greater promotion among refugee children to encourage their transition from audient to pupil status.

Health and Nutrition

- Access to primary care remains a priority for Ukrainian refugees in Romania. To address this need, WHO Romania provides a stipend for administrative support to selected family medicine clinics in Bucharest, Braşov, Cluj, Constanţa, Galaţi, and Suceava to ensure refugees' access to primary healthcare services. In November,
  WHO-supported family doctors delivered 501 consultations to Ukrainians, including 33 essential and childhood vaccinations.

Language difficulties represent one of the main challenges to accessing healthcare. In November, the hotline provided 76 translation services to refugees.
- Psychological support is a key health need among Ukrainian refugees in Romania. In November, WHO cultural mediators in Bucharest and Constanţa delivered 71 individual psychosocial consultations, 1 group and 10 art and music therapy sessions, the latter attended by 40 Ukrainians. These activities have been highly effective in addressing stress and anxiety and promoting community cohesion.

  in mental health and psychosocial support. Participants also reviewed progress on the MHPSS Minimum Preparedness Action Plan and shared updates on capacity-building initiatives. The discussions reinforced the importance of collaboration and innovation in addressing emerging needs and enhancing MHPSS efforts at all levels.

These activities not only helped improve children's physical health and fitness but also fostered important social skills such as communication, cooperation, and conflict resolution. In November, 322 children and 47 adults took part in a series of recreational and art and craft workshops, where they had the opportunity to express their creativity and get into the holiday spirit. 79 adults and 67 children benefited from individual and group counselling sessions in various areas, aimed at providing psychological support and promoting emotional well-being. The sessions offered a safe space for participants to express their thoughts and feelings, address personal challenges, and develop coping strategies. The initiatives aimed enhance mental health, improve interpersonal relationships, and help individuals better manage stress, trauma, and other life challenges.

  distribute information materials on how to access national healthcare services in Romania. Furthermore, county coordinators participated in a local stakeholder coordination meeting discussing refugee support activities.

The review was organized into focus groups targeting four key areas: impact on target populations; resource allocation and efficiency; community engagement and participation; scalability and adaptability.

Basic Needs

- On 12 November, UNHCR facilitated a meeting in Suceava together with local authorities on local emergency preparedness focusing on access to basic needs, including accommodation. The event was attended by 15 participants, with presentations from the local Department for Emergency Situations (DSU), the Border Police, and with the participation of the members of the Refugee Inclusion Working Group, a local coordination network.
  Participants discussed the immediate response capacity in Suceava in the context of winter.
- In Bucharest, NGO 4Change provided counselling support to refugees previously accommodated at the UTCB collective centre to help address their accommodation needs, working closely with local authorities and UNHCR, as some refugees continue to have difficulty finding longer-term accommodation. Similarly at the Edmond collective centre, the organization counselled refugees staying at the centre on the Government Decision focusing on clarifying their rights and obligations, and identification of the necessary documentation to access support. Through these counselling sessions, 4Change aims to further facilitate refugees' inclusion and ensure equitable access to resources available under the legal framework.

- During November, AidRom in partnership with Timişoara Food Bank held five distributions of food packages, with 171 refugees (52 families) from Ukraine receiving assistance. AidRom also organized the distribution of social vouchers in Arad, Bihor and Timiş counties, with 18 distributions reaching 165 persons in three counties. AidRom's social vouchers can be used for purchasing food, non-food items and medicines.
- Over the course of the month, UNHCR and partners distributed over 4,600 core relief items (CRIs), including family hygiene kits, mattresses, and clothing, to over 4,000 refugees living in Bucharest, Bacău, Botoșani, Buzău, Constanța, Galați, Maramureș, Mureș, Sibiu, Suceava, and Timiș. So far in 2024, UNHCR distributed 84,193 CRIs to 44,957 refugees in Romania.
- In November, UNHCR assisted vulnerable refugees through its two ongoing cash programmes. Some 1,000 eligible refugees received their third payment through the cash for refugees with specific needs programme, with nearly 1,800 receiving their fourth instalment and almost 3,800 receiving the fifth instalment. By the end of the year, nearly 5,700 refugees will have received four monthly instalments including a one month top up payment for the most vulnerable households. The cash for winter programme supported more than 5,000 refugees from Ukraine, of which 427 had newly arrived in Romania. The programme seeks to minimize the risks that vulnerable households may face in covering their most pressing basic needs in the context of increased seasonal costs.

Identified Needs and Remaining Gaps

Partners continued to monitor of the application of the Government Decision adopted under Government Emergency Ordinance no. 96/2024 to identify any potential emerging needs, specifically for vulnerable refugees who are not self-reliant. Gaps and challenges related to the limited availability of sustainable long-term accommodation have been noted. The future availability of collective centre accommodation beyond 31 March 2025 remains uncertain. Partners will continue advocating for longer-term solutions for the most vulnerable and work closely with the local and national authorities to identify sustainable solutions.

Livelihoods and Socio-Economic Inclusion

- On 19 November, Romanian Diversity Chamber of Commerce (RDCC) and UNHCR signed a memorandum of understanding for further collaboration in the field of diversity, equality, and inclusion (DEI).
