Statelessness

In February, UNHCR launched the Mapping Statelessness in Italy report, which highlights the challenges faced by at least 3,000 stateless persons and those at risk of statelessness in the country. The study identifies Roma communities from former Yugoslavia as the most affected group, alongside individuals from the former USSR, Cuba, Tibet, and Palestine. While Italy has been at the forefront of statelessness protection, the report underscores the need for strengthened legal frameworks, improved data collection, and enhanced awareness among public officials. In 2023, Italy reaffirmed its commitment through a Technical Cooperation Protocol with UNHCR and a formal pledge at the Global Refugee Forum on the subject.⁶

On 26 February, as part of the rollout of the Gender-based Violence (GBV)/Sexual Exploitation and Abuse (SEA) Risk Mitigation Toolkit (Nota Tecnica), UNHCR, in collaboration with UNICEF and the Prefecture of Perugia, organized a workshop on GBV risk mitigation. The event saw the participation of approximately 30 participants from managing entities of first-line reception facilities and SAI projects.
