

STATISTICS AND HIGHLIGHTS

- 106 refugees arrived: 92 from fYR Macedonia and 14 from Bulgaria.
- Approximately 500 departed to Croatia by bus.
- Instead of the usual train transport, 12 buses with some 750 refugees departed from Sid to Batrovci border crossing with Croatia. Some 250 refugees were not allowed to continue by Croatian authorities and brought back to the Sid RAP, where they reported to have been rejected even though they carried all required registration documents and even national passports of Syria or Iraq.
- Consequently, and with arrival of more refugees from Presevo during the day, the accommodation/waiting capacities in all three sites in the West (Sid, Adasevci and Principovac) were stretched, with over 1,800 refugees, mainly from Syria, Iraq and Afghanistan staying there.
- As of 16:30, 132 refugees from Syria and Iraq, including 30 women and 43 children, many of whom had already been pushed-back from Croatia/Slovenia all the way to fYRo Macedonia, were stuck in open country at the green border between fYRo Macedonia and Serbia, because Serbia now requested possession also of Greek registration documents in addition to the common fYRo Macedonia registration document to allow access. UNHCR fYRo Macedonia and MSF provided them with food, water, blankets, cover against the rain and other aid until early in the morning of 24 February fYRo Macedonia decided to readmit them on humanitarian grounds.
