

CENTRAL AFRICAN REPUBLIC

September 2017

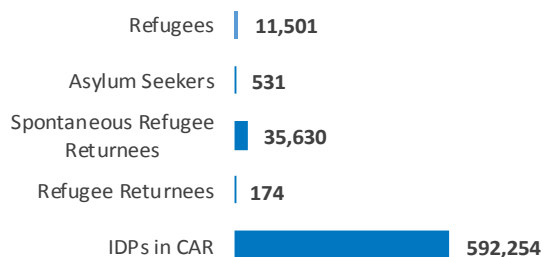

Violence in Mbomou, Basse Kotto, Haute-Kotto prefectures has brought with it spiraling protection needs and limited humanitarian access

The widening conflict is placing more pressure on UNHCR to intervene in an ever larger number of locations and to assist a growing number of people

Whilst much of the country is still afflicted by insecurity, UNHCR is working to create conditions conducive to return and repatriation

- Partnership with UNDP and the government in the search for durable solutions for IDPs and returnees in CAR with the involvement of humanitarian partners and early recovery/development actors as well as MINUSCA.
- Aligning its activities with the National Plan for Recovery and Peace Consolidation (RCPCA), UNHCR supports the Ministry of Humanitarian Action and National Reconciliation on its work on peaceful coexistence and conflict resolution as well as social cohesion.

Main Activities

Protection

- Faced with widespread insecurity and a displaced population that has grown ever larger in recent months, UNHCR has to remain agile to respond to rapidly evolving protection needs. UNHCR staff based in Bambari, Kaga-Bandoro, and Paoua undertake regular protection monitoring missions to sites as well as along major axes with displaced and host populations. The agency has also established a foothold in Bria, where it oversees Protection and camp management responses for 41,600 IDPs.
- The spread of conflict along the southern border has led to back and forth cross-border movements between CAR and the Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC). UNHCR is monitoring the movement of an estimated 20,000 people between internal displacement in the town of Zemio, and seeking refuge across the river in DRC.
- Assistance to persons of concern includes SGBV prevention and response delivered through both fixed and mobile counselling centres. Medical referral pathways are defined to ensure an appropriate response within the shortest possible timeframe.

Health

- As the provider of multisectorial assistance for refugees, UNHCR supports a health centre in Pladama Ouaka refugee camp for the Sudanese refugee population. South Sudanese refugees living in Obo respectively benefit from fully integrated access to local health services which are supported by UNHCR through the provision of vital equipment. The same was provided for Congolese refugees in Zemio prior to their temporary departure following the outbreak of the crisis in the town at the end of June.

Shelter and NFIs

- In 2017, UNHCR has provided NFI assistance to 9,955 IDP and refugee households (46,922 individuals) and emergency shelter to 14,833 households/54,274 individuals.
- The agency also seeks permanent shelter solutions for returnee families in high-return areas. In Bangui, UNHCR is implementing a project to construct some 600 houses for refugee/IDP returnee families and hosting communities. Meanwhile, in Lobaye prefecture, UNHCR is supporting the reconstruction of 60 houses for returnee families.

Camp Coordination and Camp Management

- CCCM assistance involves regular liaison with the landowners of sites to ensure that they remain open for as long as they are required. Across the country, UNHCR works with displaced communities to better organise themselves into sectorial committees, providing referral mechanisms through which key problems can be addressed. A CCCM-light approach is followed in some of the less accessible areas. In all cases, this community organisation is bolstered by regular consultations and sensitisation trainings on common protection risks.

Durable Solutions

- Focusing initially on Bangui and its surrounding areas, UNHCR has successfully supported the government in creating conditions conducive for sustainable reintegration, with 17,489 IDPs in Bangui returning to their homes since the start of the year. This includes the revival and reinforcement of traditional leadership structures to support social cohesion and the amicable resolution of local disputes.

Returns and Repatriation

- As of the end of August, 35,630 Central Africans had returned to the country in 2017. Numbers returning each month have now begun to reduce, with a 50% drop recorded in August. Nevertheless, tracking systems do not enable the agency to say with any certainty how many of those returns are permanent and how many temporary.
