KEY DISCUSSIONS	ACTION POINTS	DATE
1. HI: presentation of the study on inclusive access to Education, Basic and Specialized Services among Syrian refugees with and without disabilities in Jordan; Q&A and discussion;
HI presented the study conducted in partnership with iMMAP (August 2017- July 2018). The study focused on identification of Syrian	HI to Share the full report once finalized,	(Expected) End of July refugees with and without disabilities in Jordan and Lebanon and their level of access to educational, basic and specific services. The sample in Jordan covered 3 areas in the north: Irbid, Zaa'tri Camp and Azraq Camp.

Yahoko Asai from HI, explained the rationale behind this assessment was the limited data about persons with disability within the humanitarian context, with very few existent studies to indicate the prevalence and barriers to services for persons with disability. The sample was randomly selected using GPS data, and included persons with and without disability. The disability identification was done through Washington group questions:

- Child Functioning module (English and Arabic) can be found from UNICEF website <https://data.unicef.org/topic/child-disability/module-on-child-functioning/>
- Extended modified light set

Some headings from the presentation (more Details on each point can be found in the fact sheets and the final report).

- A total sample of 6,003 persons, 1,374 of whom have functional difficulties (22.9% ) which represents a ratio of 1:5
- Results show that disability prevalence increases with age, and females have slightly higher prevalence than males
- 62% of households have at least one member with functional difficulty
- Disability domain disaggregation
- Access to health services and specialized services
- Access to work
- Access to education

Discussion points raised during the presentation:

- Higher prevalence reported from Za'atari Camp compared to other areas: possibly related to better availability of services in Za'atari.
- The finding suggests that humanitarian actors need to think the impact of disability from a wider scope: not only at individual level but also at household level.
- WG Short Set (6 questions) is easier to use but does not include certain areas of functioning that concern refugees, for instance the fatigue and anxiety. Therefore, it is worth considering use of CFM and Extended sets.
- On the other hand, the use of the extended set requires very clear knowledge about concepts of fatigue and anxiety among the respective population. Moreover, it was highlighted that these areas of functioning are not

considered in other disability data gatherings, which makes it more difficult to compare the sets. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- The final report will include disaggregated results by areas rather than overall results, to support further discussion related to the accessible services in each location.</li> <li>- Similar data collection would be needed for other areas as well as for Jordanian populations, too.</li> </ul>
2. Update of Service Mapping Sheet and establishment of clear referral mechanisms
The service mapping sheet is a useful tool to identify active agencies, gather information about their services and how to contact them. DTF chairs highlighted the importance of updating the Mapping Sheet and asked DTF members to assess where there is new information needed from their side. Referral mechanism: UPP suggested to link the DTF with the referral coordination meeting, to have a better understanding of the services provided and the referral mechanism in place. (A DTF focal point to attend the referral meeting).	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Mapping Sheet will be shared</li> </ul>	ASAP
