28-year-old Delagha Maleki and his wife Sarah (25) left Afghanistan with their three children Setagesh, 8, Sana, 6, and Mohamed, 4. In January 2018 the family reached the island of Samos. They lived in Vathy Reception and Identification Centre until April 2018 when they moved to an apartment in Athens rented by UNHCR partner CRS/Caritas Hellas under the EU-funded ESTIA programme. Now Setagesh and Sana go to school and the family is building a new life in their new neighbourhood.

By the end of May 2020, UNHCR had created 25,508 places in the accommodation scheme as part of the ESTIA programme. These were in 4,589 apartments and 8 buildings, in 14 cities and 7 islands across Greece.

The Accommodation Scheme<sup>1</sup> provides rented housing to vulnerable asylum-seekers and refugees in Greece. Urban accommodation helps restore a sense of normalcy and provides better access to services, including education and health. People are additionally supported by social workers and interpreters who help them access medical services, employment, language courses and recreational activities.

"In the beginning it was very difficult for us in Athens. We didn't know anyone, we didn't know the culture, the language. We were lost. When I arrived at Caritas, everything changed. They literally took me by the hand and showed me everything. I used every service they offered. They enrolled my children in school, they took me to Greek language classes, they helped me get all my legal papers".
