OVERVIEW OF THE EMERGENCY AND RESPONSE

On 22 December 2020, few days before the presidential elections of 27 December in the Central African Republic, armed violence broke out causing thousands of people to flee to neighbouring countries. In Chad, the new arrivals entered through Logone Province in several villages surrounding the border including Ndoubasoh, Kombat, Bethanie and Bekoninga. Some people among the new arrivals arrived from Markounda, in its surrounding localities and other Central African towns. According to them, they had come to work in the mining sites of Markounda and fled the country due to clashes between Seleka and Révolution-Justice armed groups which were fighting over the collection of taxes on users and the occupation of various localities such as Beboura and Bemal. According to new arrivals, the fight of Seleka armed group evolves and occupies new localities forcing people to flee to Chad. The majority of them are farmers from kaba ethnic group while the minority is composed of Peuhl breeders.

For the past few days, a lull was observed in the Central Africa mainly in new arrivals' localities. The border at Bekoninga was re-open and public transport between the two countries (Chad-RCA) resumed.

EMERGENCY RESPONSE IN GORE

Protection

The Level 1 biometric registration exercise of new arrivals is ongoing in close collaboration with the Chadian government authorities. As of 29 January, 1,903 households of 6,386 individuals were registered, with women and girls representing 56% of the registered population. Majority of them are from Ouham and Ouham pendé's prefectures in the localities of Bemal, Paoua, Markounda, and Bangui.

The registration exercise indicates that 10% of new arrivals consider it possible to return to their home country when the security situation will allow it. 273 households of 1304 people were transferred from the border villages to Goré and Dosseye transit centres. Needs assessments in Education, Child Protection, GBV, Wash and Livelihood sectors are ongoing.

Shelter

UNHCR's partner ADES is currently building emergency shelters in Doholo camp. Two hectares of land were granted for construction of new shelters in Doholo camp. In total, 167 emergency shelters out of 1200 planned were completed while 400 additional shelters are expected to be completed in the coming days.

Food and Core Relief Items

Food assistance was provided by WFP to 3,504 new arrivals for one month while preparation of the next food distribution to 3,000 remaining individuals is ongoing.

1,304 individuals out of 6,386 new arrivals have been quarantined in Gore and Dosseye sites in accordance with the prevention measures of COVID 19. They were given core relief items (blankets, mats, Jerry cans, kitchen kits and mosquito nets) and three hot meals are being served to them on a daily basis during the quarantine period.

Health

Health coordination meeting was held on 29 January 2021, chaired by the Secretary General (Prefect a.i.) to discuss about health issues related to covid-19. It was recommended during the meeting to transfer new arrivals who already spent more than two weeks at the border area directly to Doholo camp after a medical screening. They will be quarantined in their emergency shelters in the camp. In addition, 20 awareness-raising sessions were conducted in the host villages on prevention measures to fight against covid19 and 220 masks were distributed to new arrivals before being transferred to the Dosseye quarantine site.

119 children aged from 0 to 1 year benefited from routine immunization.

The MSF-Holland emergency team arrived in Gore for an assessment and plans to work in the health and wash sectors.
