Operational Response

- Communication and transparency: UNHCR and partners established a variety of communication channels in the refugee response, such as social media groups, hotlines, websites, email addresses, online forms, and in-person meetings, to ensure two-way communication with refugees, taking into consideration their age, gender and diversity. Through these channels, refugees can request information, raise concerns and provide suggestions. UNHCR and its partners have undertaken other activities, including live Q&A sessions organized by Laolalta and the National Congress of Ukrainians in Moldova (NCUM).
- Organizational learning and adaptation: UNHCR implemented a project with UNICEF and CDAC Network, a global alliance of organizations working on AAP, to improve the AAP capacity of humanitarian actors. Through the project, a series of eight trainings were provided across the country by 14 members of the AAP TF who themselves had attended a 2-days ToT workshop. UNHCR together with NCUM held consultations with refugees to provide feedback and suggestions to the government on the extension of TP. This advocacy, joined by others, resulted in the lifting of the 45-day limit outside Moldova for Ukrainians which was welcomed by the refugee community.
- Participation and Inclusion: Together with AAP TF members, UNHCR conducted a Participatory Assessment in late 2023 to evaluate the needs and priorities of refugees and host communities. Over 260 refugees participated in focus group discussions in 18 districts throughout the country. As well, during the development of the 2024 Refugee Response Plan, UNHCR conducted local consultations with humanitarian stakeholders, including refugees and Moldovans reaching over 100 people and ensuring that a variety of perspectives were considered.
- Feedback and Response: UNHCR feedback and complaint mechanism also serve as a Refugee Coordination Forum mechanism and is composed of the UNHCR Green Line, an online form, and an email, also UNHCR staff can be reached directly in person. Everyone can provide feedback and complaints in the most appropriate way.
