Humanitarian Response and Advocacy

On 22 January, UNHCR participated in the SEISM 2025 lessons-learned recap meeting organised by the Department for Emergency Situations (DSU) at the Ministry of Internal Affairs (MAI), which brought together more than 30 participants from partner institutions. The exercise, conducted in June 2025, tested Romania's preparedness for a major seismic event, with a focus on coordination between national authorities and civil society responders, rapid resource mobilisation, and the effectiveness of national procedures under pressure. During the meeting, UNHCR underscored the critical importance of clear and reliable communication channels in emergency preparedness and response and shared additional operational and technical recommendations based on its active contribution to the simulation. UNHCR remains committed to supporting national preparedness and response structures and to working closely with Romanian authorities and partners to ensure timely, coordinated, and protection-centred assistance for displaced and vulnerable populations in emergencies, including natural disasters and nuclear incidents. In 2025, UNHCR strengthened national emergency preparedness by donating its contingency stock of 208,542 core relief items (CRIs) valued at US$ 6.65 million to DSU to address emergencies,

On 21 January, UNHCR hosted a creative workshop for children aged 6–12, where participants brought jar lanterns to life through their imagination. The session went beyond a simple craft activity, providing a safe and child-friendly space for sharing ideas, experimenting with colours, and collaborating with peers. The room buzzed with energy and creativity as children painted imaginative designs, crafted unique patterns, shapes, and characters, and made gifts for their friends. The workshop nurtured creativity, teamwork, and confidence, leaving participants proud of their achievements and inspired to continue expressing themselves through art.
