UNHCR UGANDA

UPDATE FOR THE SOUTH SUDAN EMERGENCY

15 October-11 November, 2015

HIGHLIGHTS

- A total of 750 refugees arrived from South Sudan between 26 October to 09 November from Elegu (683) and Kuluba (57) collection points. The rate of arrival is down from 677 new arrivals reported in the last two weeks. The declining trend of the refugee influx is attributed to the recent signing of the peace deal between President Salva Kiir and Riek Machar, although the security situation remains volatile. The new arrivals sight fighting between armed forces in Pari, Malakal and Bentiu as their reason for flight. There is also reported famine in the areas of Unity, Upper Nile and Jonglei states.
- In compliance with the IGAD mediated pact between President Salva Kiir and his rival, Machar, over 3000 Ugandan troops-the Ugandan People's Defence Forces (UPDF), started withdrawing from South Sudan but their absence has not caused noticeable influxes as had earlier been feared.
- On November 1, South Sudanese rebels released 13 United Nations contractors held captive since October 26, including a crew of a convoy of three barges carrying 55,000 litres of fuel along the Nile River to a UN base in Upper Nile state. According to UN Mission, the convoy equipment, a total of three vessels including the barge, have also been returned and are on their way to Melut, Upper Nile State. The rebels are yet to return the fuel cargo, communications equipment, an inflatable boat, and seven of the 16 UNMISS weapons.
- In Adjumani, UNHCR, the Office of the Prime Minister (OPM) and partners are jointly carrying out a verification exercise to update refugee profiles, ascertain actual refugee populations and addresses (their actual location) in the settlements. The verification process, which started on November 2 is ongoing in Aiylo Refugee Settlement and is expected to start in Arua on 16 November. A total of 5,951 individuals have been verified as of 7 November.
- UNHCR Uganda launched a 10-day Safe Road Use Campaign in West Nile on Saturday, November 7, to cover all field offices/ units. Operational Context

- UNHCR together with the Office of the Prime Minister and partners relocated a total of 1423 individuals (1370-Adjumani and 53-Arua) from Nyumanzi and Ocea Reception Centres to Manji settlement and Wanyange village respectively. OPM allocated residential plots of 30x30 meters dimension to new arrivals, issued them with refugee family attestations and ration cards. UNHCR through Danish Refugee Council (DRC) supported all the relocated refugees with second phase of basic Core Relief Items comprising household items and shelter construction tools. While WFP through World Vision provided them with assorted food items for 35 days.
- In Arua, a team from UK's Department for International Development (DFID) conducted a field mission to monitor the Governance, Accountability and Performance (GAPP) program, which is being implemented with their support. The program aimed to increase participation, accountability and local governance for effective service delivery in 35 districts, including Arua. The team visited Rhino Camp Refugee Settlement, Ocea Reception Centre and other integrated service centres such as health and school facilities where they held interactions with refugee representatives and local leaders. They were accompanied by UNHCR and OPM staff.
- In Arua, UNHCR, OPM and partners are conducting a joint annual nutritional survey that started in Rhino Camp settlement to be rolled out in all settlements and neighbouring host communities. The objective of the Survey is to assess and streamline public health indicators on nutrition including food security, micro-nutrient-anaemia, infant and young child feeding practices, water and sanitation and mosquito net coverage in the refugee settlements in order to generate information for improved programme and policy interventions. Community health workers and village health teams in the settlements are allocated specific number of households to cover during the survey.

As is often the case, the new arrivals were served with high energy biscuits upon arrival at the collection point, then transported to the Transit Centre where they are assisted with core relief items comprising of sleeping mats, blankets, mosquito nets, plates, cups and soap.
