- The security situation in north-eastern Nigeria and particularly in Borno State is volatile as suicide bombings against civilians and military installations continue to occur on a regular basis. Sweeping operations carried out by the Nigerian military have an equally disruptive effect on every-day life and further disrupt humanitarian actors' activities in the region.

- In Cameroon, the security situation has deteriorated during the reporting period due to an increasing amount of kamikaze incursions that have resulted in 56 civilian deaths. The insurgent group is being targeted on multiple fronts by the Nigerian and Cameroonian MJTF forces and is increasingly resorting to guerrilla warfare as a result.
- Attacks continue to take place in Chad's Lake region. On 5 December, three suicides bombers detonated their explosives at a local market in Kelfoua, a town located 60 Km from Bagasola, killing 30 and wounding 200. RECENT DEVELOPMENTS

Operational Context

NIGERIA – The security situation in north-eastern Nigeria and particularly in Borno State is volatile as suicide bombings against civilians and military installations continue to occur on a regular basis. Sweeping operations carried out by the Nigerian military have an equally disruptive effect on every-day life and further disrupt humanitarian actors' activities in the region. IDP camps in the city of Maiduguri where UNHCR staff members and partners carry out occasional NFI distributions are becoming increasingly unsafe. The UNHCR field security and protection teams continue to examine ways of minimizing staff exposure. In the meantime, recommendations issued in the Protection Sector Working Group's position paper on improving safety within the camps are followed.

NIGER – There have been seven attacks in the Diffa department over the past month, which have resulted in 43 civilian deaths. In their wake, the populations of numerous villages have been forced to flee while others have left pre-emptively to settle within communities, camps or spontaneous sites. The curfew and restrictions on traffic imposed by the state of emergency have been widened by an hour each to start earlier.

CAMEROON – The security situation has deteriorated due to an increasing amount of kamikaze incursions that have resulted in 56 civilian deaths over the past month. The insurgent group is being targeted on multiple fronts by the Nigerian and Cameroonian MJTF forces and is increasingly resorting to guerrilla warfare. According to governmental sources, sweep operations undertaken by Cameroonian defence forces have led to the liberation of 900 hostages in the border communities and the apprehension of large quantities of weapons and ammunition.

CHAD – Attacks continue to take place in the Lake region. On 5 December, three suicides bombers detonated their bombs at a local market in Kelfoua, a town located 60 Km from Bagasola, killing 30 and wounding 200. In response to the growing climate of insecurity, the Chadian Government had placed the Lake Region under a state of emergency on 9 November, which is planned to end on 22 March 2016.

Protection

In Abuja, FCT, female IDPs have been trained by the National Centre for Women's Development (NCWD), in basic computer use, business plan development, hairdressing, dress making, catering, tie-dye, knitting, household hygiene products confection, and jewellery production.

In Damaturu UNHCR and PSWG staff visited the Emir of Damaturu to solicit his support for children and women's rights. The latter also carried out an advocacy visit to the Tarmuwa Local Government Area (LGA) to engage with traditional leaders and school communities. In Gombe, PSWG members, IDPs, religious leaders and women's rights groups participated in a range of SGBV prevention activities. Achievements and impact: On 12 and 14 December, UNHCR organised a child protection workshop for administrative and judiciary authorities, the police and humanitarian partners. In total 34 persons participated in the activity, which aimed to reinforce the technical capacities of operational partners in the child protection sector in order to better evaluate and determine children's best interests.

- UNICEF have started to renovate classrooms in camp schools and are distributing learning materials, school equipment and play kits in the camp.

Health

NIGER

Achievements and impact: UNHCR conducted visits to the Diffa hospital to monitor the condition of those injured in the various attacks that have taken place in the region over the past weeks, and who are being supported by the ICRC. The 16 displaced persons who had been shot have recovered and have been discharged.

- Through its mobile clinic in Yébi (Bosso area), APBE held a broad malnutrition screening exercise for 3,729 children. Out of these, 588 were found to be suffering from moderate acute malnutrition (MAM) and 168 from severe acute malnutrition (SAM). All were referred to the health centre in Bosso for support.

CAMEROON

Achievements and impact: UNICEF and WHO are providing support to the Far North cholera and rubella prevention campaign. Results from the second round indicate that 57% of the children targeted (out of 1,721,201) have been vaccinated. This campaign was initiated on 25 November in Maroua and will ensure vaccinations are carried out across the entire region. In Minawao camp, 19,065 children aged 9 months to 14 years have been vaccinated; this figure represents 75% of the entire population in this age group registered by UNHCR.

The aim of the meeting was to empower students through the establishment of child parliaments.

Food Security and Nutrition

CAMEROON

Achievements and impact: In Minawao, from 4 to 9 December, a total of 49,968 refugees received food rations from WFP. As regards the blanket feeding exercise, 93% of children (aged 6-23 months) targeted were assisted.

- As of 30 November, 134 children aged 6-59 months and 39 pregnant women were being assisted in the moderate acute malnutrition programme managed by IMC. Indicators for the month of November are very encouraging: the drop-out rate decreased from 7% to 2% (< 15% standard); the healing rate increased from 93% to 98% (≥ 75% standard) and the death rate remained at 0 (> 3% standard).

Water and Sanitation

CAMEROON

Achievements and impact: In Minawao, the average daily water provision rate stands at 18 L per person. A total of 2,115 latrines are functional for a ratio 24 persons/latrine and 1,692 showers for a ratio of 30 persons/shower. The number of hygiene promoters stands at 105 for a ratio 483 refugees/promoter.

- On 4 December the water conveyance project was initiated by the Mokolo Mayor, Camwater Director General, UNHCR's Africa Bureau Director and the Far North Governor. The project aims to transport water from Mokolo to Minawao through the town of Zamay.

Challenges, needs and remaining gaps: The camp's water trucking capacity is decreasing because the Mayo-Louti river is drying up. UNHCR and MSF staff are conducting surveys upstream to install a new pumping station but this would only provide a short term solution (1 month). In the long term it will be necessary to expedite the water adduction project, which involves establishing a water conveyance system that will transport water from the town of Mokolo to Minawao.

Shelter and NFIs

NIGER

Achievements and impact: In the Sayam Forage camp, the construction of transitional shelters is ongoing to replace emergency shelters. A group of 20 refugees have been trained with UNHCR funds by IEDA Relief in the Diffa Professional and Technical Training Centre, and hired by Cooperazione Internazionale (COOPI) to perform welding work for the constructions of the shelters in the context of the Cash for Work programme. Another 20 refugees are in charge of constructing the shelters and earn a living through the same programme. As of 17 December, 150 transitional shelters had been built in Sayam Forage and 50 are currently underway in Kabélawa. UNHCR and COOPI intend to facilitate the construction of 1,000 shelters across both camps, enough to host their entire populations.

CAMEROON

Achievements and impact: The NGO Action pour le Développement Economique et Social (ADES), distributed NFIs to 16,543 IDPs in the Waza, Maltam, Blangoua, Ilé Alifa and Macari localities in the Logone et Chari department. Prior to this distribution, 15,667 IDP had been assisted in other localities, bringing to 32,210 those assisted out of a planned 38,680. Out of this group, 5,525 persons with specific needs were provided with NFIs.

- In Minawao, 30 new light posts were set up by IEDA Relief to increase camp security during the night.
