DRC Complaint Response Mechanism		Camp Women's Association Update
During the Month of February DRC CCCM did not receive any formal complaint letters from STMG & PYG, however concerns about insufficient and late food rations was raised by many in STMG & PYG. We are working closely with our camp based staff to ensure that IDPs are aware of our the complaint and feedback processes and that they are accessible for all.		DRC is working to establish Camp Women's Associations (CWAs) in its camps this year. It is our vision that the CWAs will act as a semi-formal source of female leadership in the camps that can provide a counterweight to the influence of the CMCs. Approximately 10 women will be identified to represent their communities during monthly meetings with DRC CCCM staff. As they raise camp priorities, CCCM will provide support to address these issues with a community-driven approach, raising concerns through appropriate avenues as needed.
DRC is highly committed to listening to the IDP communities we serve and to international commitments on accountability; as a result DRC CCCM will be focusing on improving our Complaint Response Mechanism (CRM) over the coming months. Throughout the month of March we will be holding focus group discussions with our camp based staff and IDP communities for their input on how best to improve our CRM system. Updates will follow in next month's report.		STMG is one of four camps where a CWA has already been established. Through a snowball sampling method, DRC staff identified 10 women who are considered well-respected community members who are highly involved in camp-life. The first meeting of the STMG CWA is scheduled for 16 March. Please contact Courtney Cox (at courtney.cox@drcmm.org) if your agency/sector/cluster would like to collaborate with the STMG CWA and we will be happy to facilitate meetings, joint assessments, trainings, and other activities as needed.
