

Between January and August there have been fifty-four (54) confinement events affecting 51,101 people (13,747 families). These amount to an 11% increase in the number of people affected compared to 2021. On August 5 events were registered in Montecristo, Bolívar (1), Almaguer (1) and Balboa in Cauca (1), Barbacoas (1) and Roberto Payán (1) in Nariño. These events have affected 5,058 people (2,005 families).

The worsening of the humanitarian situation in the South of Bolívar and the South of Cauca, caused by confrontations between illegal armed groups and contamination by anti-personnel mines and unexploded ordnance (AP-UXOs), explains the report of the two first confinements in Montecristo (Bolívar) and Almaguer (Cauca) in 2022, events related to the corresponding displacements in the areas. The persistence of the armed confrontation between illegal armed groups in the Nariño Pacific, especially in the region of Telembí, has caused the first confirmed confinements in Barbacoas and Roberto Payán, which has added to the multiple large-group internal displacements in this area during 2022.

The most vulnerable people affected are young people, people with physical and mental disabilities and people with critical or chronic medical conditions.
